QUIET FOURTH SPENT IN CITY

Nevertheless a Long List of Accidents Is Recorded.

ALL THE FOOLS BUSY

The Pistol-Shooter, the Roman Candle Pointer and Cannon Cracker Fiend Reappear.

SOME HARD LUCK CASES, TOO

Pittsburgh celebrated yesterday one of the quietest Fourth in many years. There were no especially large assemblages in the city itself, although Allegheny and some of the other communities of Greater Pittsburgh had elaborate celebrations.

The day was marred as usual by a list of accidents of many kinds. The cracker that was held too long, the fool who pointed Roman candles at his friend, the stray bullet which falls from the sky and hurts a person many blocks away from the fool who shot it, the big cracker "humorously" thrown at a woman, setting her clothes on fire, and all the other forms of insanity which the day produces each year were in evidence yesterday as usual.

Then there were the hard luck cases, where children suffered burns more or less serious from the smaller and less dangerous sizes of firecrackers. Altogether there was noise enough to make Young America happy and to cause Old America to be glad that there was but one Declaration of Independence to be signed.

Following is a list of the casualties reported yesterday:

JOSEPH RIDING, Almeda street, Hazelwood; burned by the premature discharge of a small cannon; was taken to the South Side hospital; may lose his eyesight.

MRS. JAMES CARROLL of Treveskyn; hit by a stray bullet while standing at Fifth avenue and Liberty street; she was able to be taken home.

JAMES AIKINS of 2037 Gladstone street, Allegheny; injured while trying to suppress a holiday quarrel between two foreigners near his home; his condition is serious.

KIRBY LESKER, aged 12, of 165 Pius street, South Side; right hand severely burned by explosion of "Thunderbolt" firecracker.

MIKE BOFFAGE, aged 21, of 3318 Smallman street; was shot in the eye with a ball from a Roman candle; then, crazed with pain, jumped through window, cutting his right hand and arm; taken to West Penn hospital.

CHARLES WALKER, 1206 Center avenue; hand badly lacerated by premature explosion of a firecracker.

DANIEL TOMER, aged 12, Everett street; burned about the face by firecracker in River avenue. The cracker was thrown under his feet by Murel Hawley, aged 13, of River avenue, it is alleged. Hawley was placed under arrest.

GRACE CRAWFORD, 8-year-old daughter of Harris Crawford, 5708 Rippey street; severely burned on the side and arm by her clothing taking fire from a firecracker which was thrown against her side.

EDWARD MERTZ, aged 16, 107 South Seventeenth street; struck in the throat by a Roman candle and badly burned; removed to his home by the police; condition is serious.

ANTHONY BASSETT, 10 years old, Neel street, Homestead; a celebrator threw a cracker hastily, not meaning to hurt Bassett. The cracker exploded in the air and filled the boy's right eye with powder.

THOMAS SHAUGHNESSEY, 8 years old, Whittaker; arose at 6 a. m., went out in the yard and put a giant cracker into an empty tomato can. The can was hurled with great force against Shaughnessey's face and cut his left eye and forehead.

JOHN MORRIS, aged 10, Braddock; gathered a lot of powder from Roman candles and shooting crackers, intending to prepare something special. While he was thinking up something striking a spark fell into the powder. Morris' hands and arms are tied up in bandages.

PAUL WASELENSKI, 30 years old, interpreter at the court house, living in Dixon street, Homestead; was explaining the meaning of the Fourth of July to a number of countrymen; became interested and held a cannon cracker too long; cracker went off, knocking a piece off of one of Waselenski's fingers and burning his hand badly.

JOHN STOHN, Homestead, 15 years old; surreptitiously set a match to a cannon, which went off, turning around as it did so, and Stohn's right arm was shot full of burning powder.

MRS. THOMAS MOORE, Eleventh street, Homestead; while walking on the street near her home somebody threw a big cracker in the air and it alichted on her shoulder; exploding, the cracker burned her face.

CLAIRE M'QUAIDE, aged 14, daughter of Detective Superintendent McQuaide, of 227 Steuben street, West End; burned about the right eye and nose by the explosion of a firecracker.

ISIDORE CAPLIN, aged 10, of 1612 Fifth avenue; left eye burned by a firecracker; was removed to the Homeopathic hospital.

JAMES WILSON, Rebecca street, North Braddock; one of a party accidentally shot a 32-caliber bullet into Wilson's thigh.

STEVE KOCHAR, one of party of four celebrating the day by a row on the Monongahela at McKeesport; boat was capsized and Kochar was drowned.

ALBERT FLOSTROM, McKeesport, while setting off fireworks stumbled into a quarry 50 feet deep, breaking two ribs; taken to McKeesport hospital.

HARRY FEISTER, aged 15 years, Fifth avenue, McKeesport; hand burned by explosion of a blank cartridge for pistol.

JOHN METZ, aged 13, Jenny Lind street, McKeesport; right hand torn by holding cannon cracker too long.

Director Bigelow sprung a surprise on the public last night and paid a compliment to H. C. Frick, with whom the director has had considerable business recently over the hump cut, by making a large set portrait of Mr. Frick in fire one of the features of the Fourth of July fireworks display in Schenley park. Mr. Frick's illuminated picture was one of a dozen set pieces viewed by probably 20,000 people in the park and which could be plainly seen a mile away.

Another feature which Director Bigelow had carefully planned was the display of a portrait of similar size to that of Mr. Frick of former Congressman James W. Brown. "There's the next mayor of Pittsburgh," said the director pointing to the burning image of the ex-congressman.

SWEDEN'S ARMY WILL MOBILIZE

Military Ordered to Make a Demonstration Against Norway.

KING MAKES A STATEMENT

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

STOCKHOLM, July 4.—An order for the mobilization of the Swedish army has been issued, and a proclamation to this effect will probably be issued within a week. The mobilization is intended as a means of giving added force to any proposal for settlement which the special committee appointed by the riksdag may make to the Norwegian storthing.

King Oscar, in a lengthy interview with a newspaper correspondent today, said emphatically that he would never allow any of his sons or his grandsons to accept the Norwegian throne. In speaking of the attitude of Norway the king displayed deep emotion and expressed his heartfelt sorrow at Norway's treatment of him after 32 years of unceasing labor for its happiness and prosperity. King Oscar reiterated his official utterances regarding his position on the consular bill passed by the storthing and the events which followed his veto of it, and said:

> When the king of Norway considers that the welfare of the country demands that he shall veto a bill passed by the storthing his right to do so is unconditionally shown in Norway's constitution, and he would be false to his oath if he did not exercise this right in accordance with his conscience.
> The constitution gives the storthing the power to pass a measure over my veto, prescribing, however, that this can only be done by the bill being passed by three consecutive storthings. The consular bill was only passed by one storthing.
>
> As king of Norway it was of the utmost necessity that I should always keep before my eyes the first article of the Norwegian constitution, which reads: "The kingdom of Norway is a free, independent, indivisible and inalienable country united to Sweden under one king." Therefore it was imperative, before approving a bill separating the consular systems of Sweden and Norway, that I should consider the welfare and interests of both countries, and I had a perfect right as king of Norway to refuse my sanction.
>
> The refusal of the Norwegian cabinet to countersign my veto was inexcusable, as the constitution prescribes that the king may decide according to his judgment and that all his orders must be countersigned by the cabinet.
>
> Thus the Norwegian constitution, my own conscience and my consideration of the welfare of both kingdoms were the guide to my action in vetoing the consular bill.

FATALLY HURT BY FALLS.

Attorney W. W. Whitesell and William Sutton Have Skulls Fractured by Falling Down Stairways.

Attorney W. W. Whitesell, aged 45, of Sewickley, had his skull fractured last evening by falling down a flight of stairs at 310 Smithfield street. He was removed to the Homeopathic hospital and his condition is serious. No one saw the accident, but it is supposed he fell from the head of the stairway. He is a well-known member of the bar.

William Sutton, aged 23, of 214 North Negley avenue, yesterday morning fell down the stairway of the Hotel Lafayette, Grant street and Seventh avenue, and fractured his skull. He is in a serious condition at the Homeopathic hospital.

HEAD WAS CRUSHED BY TROLLEY WHEELS

ERIE, PA., July 4.—Carl Trainer, of Union City rode on a crowded trolley car, standing on the side of the car next to the other track. He was knocked off by a car going in the opposite direction and his head was crushed under the wheels. Death was almost instantaneous.

SKIFF TURNS TURTLE; TWO MEN LOSE LIVES

Stephen Welsh and Ernest Goth Make Tragic Boating Party on Monongahela.

Two men were drowned in the Monongahela at the foot of South Twenty-ninth street at 8 o'clock Monday night, through the capsizing of a skiff. Their bodies have not been recovered. They were:

STEPHEN WELSH, aged 30, of No. 2216 Forbes street.

ERNEST GOTH, aged 28, of No. 2216 Forbes street.

Edward Flynn, aged 18, of the same address, who accompanied the men, saved his life by clinging to the overturned boat until he was rescued. Goth struck out to swim ashore, but sank before he could reach the goal. Welsh sank immediately.

The men hired a boat at the foot of South Eighteenth street and rowed up the river. At Twenty-ninth street the towboat Andrew Axon came down the river and the overloaded skiff was caught in the high waves from the paddle-wheel of the boat. It was overturned and the men were thrown into the river. The men boarded with Mrs. Mary Barrie in Forbes street.

SOUTH SIDE MAN TRIES TWICE TO HANG HIMSELF

Failure With a Handkerchief Leads Him to Make Noose Out of His Shoestrings.

John Stinson of the Thirty-third ward twice tried to commit suicide last night. When he failed with his handkerchief, he next made a noose with his shoe strings, but was discovered both times and thwarted in his attempts to end his life. He is now reposing in the padded cell in the South Side police station.

Stinson was arrested yesterday afternoon at the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad station on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was placed in No. 9 police station on Mt. Washington and about one hour afterward some of his fellow prisoners discovered him hanging in his cell, strangled by his handkerchief. He was removed to No. 7 police station for safe keeping, and there immediately made a rope of his shoe strings and repeated the act of suicide. He was cut down before he succeeded in doing himself injury.

TAFT LEAVES HIS PARTY.

Secretary Hurries to Mare Island to Consult Engineers About a New Bridge.

SACRAMENTO, CAL., July 4.—Secretary Taft left his party today at Sparks, Nev., and hurried ahead on a special train.

"I am hurrying on to Mare Island," he said, "where I am to meet Col. W. H. Heuer, United States engineer, and others, for the purpose of making an inspection of Carquinez strait. The subject of allowing a bridge to be erected at this point by the Southern Pacific railroad is a most important question, and I suppose that considerable hinges on the report I shall make to the president on the subject."

Counterfeiters Released.

ATLANTA, GA., July 4.—William T. Kindig and William M. Jacobs, Lancaster (Pa.) cigar manufacturers, who used counterfeit internal revenue stamps, have left this city for Philadelphia after being released from the federal penitentiary here.

FOURTH CELEBRATED BY FRENCH NATION

American Diplomats and Sailors Are Received at the President's Palace.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

PARIS, July 4.—A notable feature of the Fourth of July was a reception given by President Loubet at the Elysee palace to Senior Special Ambassador Porter, Junior Special Ambassador Loomis, Rear Admiral Sigsbee and the other officers of the American squadron, constituting the official party for the transfer of the body of Admiral John Paul Jones.

Ambassador McCormick accompanied the party, which was escorted through the Champs Elysees to the palace. Crowds lined the avenues to see the cavalcade and to salute the American officers, whose brilliant uniforms made them the center of attention. The band played "America."

This evening the French and American squadrons were brilliantly illuminated. A concert given by the bands of the American squadron evoked the heartiest applause. The French naval petty officers entertained their American comrades at a "punch" in the Central markets, which were beautifully decorated with evergreens and shields and the French and American flags interwoven. Eleven hundred persons were present. Commandant Leon, representing the maritime prefect, presided, and expressed his pleasure at seeing the flags of the two republics floating together in the harbor. A telegram was sent to President Roosevelt conveying the respects of the French officers.

AMBASSADOR ROSEN HAS ARRIVED IN NEW YORK

Declares He Did Not Say Russia Is Willing to Pay Cost of the War Within Certain Limits.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 4.—"Please deny for me that I have given out any interview on politics," were almost the first words of Baron Rosen, the New Russian ambassador to America, who arrived on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. today. "A French news agency attributed to me an interview quoting me as saying Russia is willing to pay the expenses of the war within certain limits. I wish you to deny this for me, and also deny I have ever expressed publicly any opinion of a political nature."

Baron Rosen succeeds Count Cassini as ambassador for Russia to the United States, and has also been named as one of Russia's plenipotentiaries. The baron does not come to the United States a stranger, as he served his country as charge d'affairs at Washington during the first administration of President Cleveland. Since his last stay in America the baron has been minister at Tokyo and held that post at the outbreak of the war.

The ambassador was asked what he thought of Washington in August as a place of meeting for the peace conference. He replied it would be most uncomfortable, that most any northern point would be more acceptable. Baron Rosen was accompanied by his wife and their daughter. He took the train for Manchester.

Hurricane Strikes Samoa.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., July 4.—News has reached here that great damage has been caused in Samoa by a hurricane.

PITTSBURGHERS NEARLY LOSE THEIR LIVES

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ludwig Narrowly Escape in Fire Which Destroys Hotel.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHAGRIN FALLS, O., July 4.—Fire, which partially destroyed the Colby house this evening, came near costing the lives of three people. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ludwig of Pittsburgh, guests of the house, were taken from an upper window by firemen, unconscious. They had been overcome by smoke, but revived under the care of physicians after a few minutes.

After the fire was well under way the proprietor of the hotel, Mrs. Eva Thebold, rushed to her room in the second story to get her jewelry. She was overcome by the smoke and was brought out by firemen in an unconscious condition. She says she lost jewelry valued at $200.

The fire caught in an upper floor, presumably from an electric light wire, and it took two hours' work before it was got under control. Mrs. Ludwig, the Pittsburgh woman injured, is a daughter of Mrs. Thebold.

TO NAME CANDIDATES AT A TOWN MEETING

Mayor Weaver Proposes a New Plan to Defeat the Republican Organization.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, PA., July 4.—Having reached the conclusion that the Republican organization cannot be destroyed through the agency of the City party, Mayor Weaver and his associates are considering the advisability of calling a "town meeting" to nominate county officers, if John Wanamaker and Judge Gordon concur.

The mayor is quoted as saying: "If the gas ordinance had not been repealed there would have been bloodshed. I could not have prevented it with all the machinery of the police. The people were in no humor to withstand opposition to their just demands."

"But if the people had not by force stopped the legislation, what then?"

"I should have resigned the mayoralty. I had fully made up my mind to that. I would not have remained at the head of the city under those circumstances. My resignation would have followed the passage of the ordinance over my head. I would not, I could not, be the mayor of a municipal corporation that would tolerate the acceptance of a lease so opposed to the interests of the people."

It is now rumored that John Wanamaker would be content with the governorship, that he does not care to wait four years for a chance to oppose the re-election of Senator Penrose. Many long-headed politicians believe this is the game. They say that with Wanamaker at Harrisburg, Charles Emory Smith would make the fight for the senatorship.

CHESTER D. POLTER.

READY TO POUNCE UPON BATTLESHIP

Mutinous Russian Sailors Are Being Pursued by Torpedoboats in the Black Sea.

THE REBELS DECLARE WAR

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ODESSA, July 4.—The Kniaz Potemkine is being stalked and pursued by several torpedo boats which intend to sink her. The crews of these boats consist of officers who volunteered and stokers, and there is no danger of their refusal to obey orders and destroy the ship. The Kniaz Potemkine's hours are declared to be numbered, but this is thought preferable to the continued dishonor of her presence in the Black sea commanded by mutineers. Several torpedo boats were reported to be off Odessa last night. There are signs of activity along the wharf.

An attempt to revive the mutiny on the battleship Georgi Pobiedonosetz was discovered today. It was frustrated by loyal sailors, who delivered six of the leaders to the authorities.

LONDON, July 4.—A dispatch to the Evening Standard from Odessa says the Kniaz Potemkine has been sighted 25 miles off that port.

BERLIN, July 4.—A dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from Odessa says the Kniaz Potemkine threatened to attack a village of German colonists on the coast near Odessa and requisitioned and took on board some cattle.

Mutineers Declare War.

BUCHAREST, ROUMANIA, July 4.—Before the Kniaz Potemkine sailed from Kustendji a crew from the garrison handed the prefect a proclamation addressed to the representatives of the powers in Roumania formally declaring war on all Russian vessels which refuse to join the mutineers. The proclamation says the Kniaz Potemkine will respect neutral territory and foreign shipping. The delegation requested that the proclamation be forwarded to the powers.

The Russian torpedo boat destroyer Smetliy appeared off Kustendji today and signaled that she was seeking the Kniaz Potemkine. It is stated that the Kniaz Potemkine has attacked an Italian vessel carrying coal.

PARIS, July 4.—A dispatch to the Temps from Constantinople says that the Russian steamer Emperor Nicholas II., which had been ordered to proceed to Alexandra in place of Odessa, owing to troubles at the latter place, was unable to leave Constantinople on account of the mutiny of the crew of the Emperor Nicholas II., who insisted on going to Odessa to protect their families.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 4.—It is stated that the transport Vesbu, the crew of which joined the mutineers in the harbor of Odessa, surrendered today in Russian waters.

Mutineers Commit Murder.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 4.—The minister of marine has received the following telegram from Admiral Kruger:

> The crew of the transport Prut, having Rostow lay, mutinied, arresting the captain and other officers, Second Lieut. Nosetroff and Boatswain Kozlenko were killed. The Prut has arrived at Sebastopol and the crew now is repentant. The officers have been released, the crew keeping them to remain their boats. The Prut has been ordered to anchor at Kamishatzi bay and an inquiry into the affair has been opened.

The executive committee of the Social Revolutionists has issued a stirring appeal summoning the workmen and all classes of society interested in the overthrow of the present regime, to show sympathy with all of those who fought for freedom at Lodz, Warsaw, Odessa and other places, as well as with the sailors who mutinied at Odessa and Libau, by inaugurating a general political strike. The workmen's leaders here supplemented this by the proclamation of a general strike for Thursday. Over 70,000 men are already out and more or less disorder has occurred.

WARSAW, RUSSIAN POLAND, July 4.—An extensive strike was inaugurated at Kleire yesterday, as a mark of sympathy with the victims of the rioting at Lodz. The railroad station at Kleire was attacked this morning and the freight sheds were wrecked. Gendarmes fired on the rioters and troops have been requisitioned to restore order.

BIELOSTOK, RUSSIA, July 4.—There was sporadic firing in several streets today and a bomb was thrown in the center of the town. It is reported that several persons were killed.

Travel Record Made in New York.

NEW YORK, July 4.—[Special.]—It was estimated that more than 1,500,000 fares were collected today by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. The use of discarded rolling stock was resorted to, causing amusement to some and consternation to those who saw such cars for the first time in the streets.

Storm Kills Four Croatians.

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 4.—[Special.]—A windstorm struck the unfinished shell of a house being built for Croatian boarders and a saloon in Wells street today and it collapsed. Six Croatians loitering in the place were hurt, four fatally.

JOHN HAY'S BODY LIES IN QUIET

Din of National Holiday Does Not Reach Temporary Resting Place of Statesman.

PRESIDENT'S PARTY EN ROUTE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CLEVELAND, O., July 4.—Guarded by soldiers around the bier, while the halls of the chamber of commerce were patrolled by police, the body of John Hay lay throughout the national holiday. In accordance with the proclamation of Acting Mayor Lapp, the public remained away from the vicinity of the chamber of commerce, and the police saw that no unseemly din was made in the streets immediately adjoining the building.

Samuel Mather was the only member of the Hay family to appear at the chamber of commerce during today. He came to consult with the citizens committee about some details of the funeral. Mrs. Hay spent the day at Mr. Mather's home at Glenville. Many visitors called, but to most of them she denied herself.

All day long messenger boys delivered floral tributes at the Mather home. A number were sent by foreign countries. Early tomorrow morning the flowers will be taken to the cemetery where they will be arranged about the grave, while the services are being held in the chapel.

Details of the Funeral.

The president will arrive at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and will be met at the depot by the members of the citizens committee. Escorted by troop A of the Ohio National Guard, the president and members of his cabinet will be driven directly to the chamber of commerce, which they can hardly reach before 9:30 or 9:40.

Ten o'clock is the hour set for the departure of the funeral train from the chamber of commerce. One hour is allowed for the drive to the cemetery, five miles away. At the services in the chapel a quartet composed of B. W. Willard, H. W. Whitney, E. G. Protheroe and Henry A. Cole will first render the favorite hymn of Mr. Hay, Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," an extract from the Scriptures will be read by the Rev. H. C. Haydn, who will also make a short prayer after the choir has sung "For All the Saints Who from Their Labors Rest."

The body will then be removed from the chapel and the funeral train will pass up the hill to the family lot, where the interment will be made. The quartet will sing "Still, Still With Thee," and the services will be closed by a short prayer and the benediction.

Secretary Hioki of the Japanese legation arrived this morning to attend the funeral. He is the only personal representative of the diplomatic corps to arrive, up to this time.

The citizens of Cleveland will hold a Hay memorial meeting at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce. Gov. Herrick will preside, and Hon. Elihu Root, ex-secretary of war, will be asked to deliver the principal address.

PHILADELPHIA, July 4.—President Roosevelt and nearly all of the present and former members of his cabinet are en route to Cleveland tonight on a special train on the Pennsylvania railroad to attend the obsequies of John Hay, late secretary of state. The party constitutes the largest representation of the executive branch of the government ever assembled on one train. It includes, besides the president, all but one member of the present cabinet and three ex-members of President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Secretary Taft who is en route to the Philippines is the only absentee from the cabinet circle, and Elihu Root, former secretary of war, Paul Morton, former secretary of the navy, and Charles Emory Smith, former postmaster general, are of the president's party. Mr. Root, at the request of the president, will represent the state department at the funeral.

The president left Oyster Bay on his sorrowful mission at 3:25 p. m. on a special train of the Long Island Railroad Company. In the president's immediate party were Secretary Loeb, M. A. Latta, president's personal stenographer, representatives of the press associations, secret service officers and messengers. The run to Long Island city was made in 50 minutes, the president having as his guest to that city Baron Speck von Sternberg, the German ambassador, who visited the president at Sagamore Hill to pay his respects prior to his departure for Germany on Thursday.

Shakes Hands With Trainmen.

As the president left his car at Long Island city, he shook hands cordially with the engineer and fireman of the locomotive which had drawn the train. The president arrived at Jersey City station at 5:15 o'clock and at once boarded the special train which was awaiting him. He was joined at the station by Attorney General Moody and a little while later by former secretaries Root and Morton.

Philadelphia was reached at 7:49 p. m., the president being joined here by Secretaries Shaw, Bonaparte, Wilson, Hitchcock, and Metcalf, Postmaster General Cortelyou, Charles Emory Smith and Dr. P. M. Rixey, surgeon-general of the navy. The president remained in his car conversing with the members of his cabinet until just after the train began to move out. Then he slipped to the platform, shook hands with the fireman and engineer and bowed to the station employes, policemen and others who had crowded about the car. United States Senator Knox of Pennsylvania will board the president's train tomorrow morning at Sewickley, a short distance west of Pittsburgh.

DIPLOMATS WILL ATTEND SERVICE

Program Is Completed for Exercises in Memory of Mr. Hay at Capital.

FOREIGN CITIES IN MOURNING

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 4.

The program for the special memorial service to be held in honor of the late Secretary Hay at the Church of the Covenant, where the Hay family worship, has been completed. The Rev. Dr. Hamlin, the rector of the church, will conduct the services.

All of the members of the diplomatic corps in Washington or its immediate vicinity have indicated their intention to be present. The army and navy will attend in full uniform, and the heads of the various bureaus of departments will be present. The entire clerical force of the state department will go to the church in a body. The ushers are the heads of the latter department.

The president's proclamation for the observance of the usual period of general mourning on account of the death of Secretary Hay will not go into effect until tomorrow, the day of the funeral. This enabled the navy department to carry out the usual ceremonies of dressing ship for the Fourth of July. Had the order for half-masting the flags on all war vessels gone into effect today, it would have rendered the usual Fourth of July ceremonies on shipboard impossible.

A cable message was received at the war department today from Gov. White, in the Philippines, which, after acknowledging receipt of the president's proclamation on the death of Secretary Hay, announced that orders had been given for the closing of all the departments and the half-masting of all flags in the islands.

The state department was advised today that the Southern Graduates' association of Theita Delta Chi, of which fraternity Secretary Hay was a member, will be represented at the funeral by a committee of five members.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 4.—Secretary of War Taft telegraphed here today cancelling his engagement for the army and navy reception tomorrow night. His action is construed as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Secretary Hay.

ROME, July 4.—The American flags waving in honor of Fourth of July were at half-mast, a sign of mourning for the late Secretary Hay. Ambassador White withdrew his invitations for the reception planned for this afternoon, out of respect for the deceased statesman.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 4.—The American colony, out of respect for Secretary Hay's death, made no attempt to celebrate the Fourth. The embassy was draped and the flag was half-masted throughout the day.

CAPT. HENDERSON OVERCOME

Well Known Steamboat Man Frostrated By Heat While on Way to Country Club.

Capt. James A. Henderson, president of the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati packet line, while on his way to the Country club yesterday afternoon, was suddenly overcome by the heat and removed to the East End hospital.

Capt. Henderson left his office at the foot of Wood street about 3 o'clock. He had complained to his son that he was not feeling very well, and while confused evidently boarded a wrong car. The conductor of the Frankstown car on which he was traveling noticed that he had fallen forward against the rear window of the car, and attempted to arouse him, but failing, had him removed.

He was unconscious when taken off the car, and Police Inspector McAvoy took him to the East End hospital, where he regained consciousness about 9 o'clock.

His son, not hearing from him, and fearing that some accident had befallen him, looked him up and found him at the hospital. Early this morning Capt. Henderson was very much improved and was taken home.

JAPANESE SUITE WILL INCLUDE AN AMERICAN

LONDON, July 5.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Tokyo says that the suite of Baron Komura, minister of foreign affairs, who has been appointed one of the Japanese peace plenipotentiaries, will probably include Col. Tachibana of the war office; Commander Isami Takeshira, naval attache of the legation at Washington; Mr. Yaraza, director of information, and H. W. Denison (American) adviser of the foreign office.

UNVEIL A STATUE TO GEN. MEAGHER

HELENA, MONT., July 4.—A heroic equestrian bronze statue of Gen. Thomas Francis Meagher, leader of the Irish brigade in the civil war, and later secretary and acting governor of the territory of Montana, was unveiled in the capitol grounds this afternoon. In July, 1867, Gen. Meagher fell from a steamer at Ft. Benton into the Missouri river and was drowned. His widow still lives at Rye, N. Y.

SUCCEEDS SAKAHAROFF AS MINISTER OF WAR

ST. PETERSBURG, July 4.—Lieut. Gen. Ridiger, chief of the chancellery of the war office, has been appointed minister of war in succession to Lieut. Gen. Sakaharoff, who recently resigned. Lieut. Gen. Palatzyn has been appointed chief of the general staff.

STOLEN HORSE ENTERED AT WHITE HALL RACES

Before the Bell Rings, However, the Animal Is Sold for $75 and Two Men Are Arrested After a Chase.

A stolen horse yesterday was trotted out on the Whitehall race track for entrance in the free-for-all class. It was a beautiful bay gelding, with a record of 2:30, and his name was Ivanhoe. The fact that the thieves disposed of the animal to a farmer only prevented the strange horse from becoming a challenger of the track. Robert Berry and Bernard Rogers, who were captured by Special Officers Leyshon Williams and Charles McAfee, after a long chase across Baldwin township, are being held at the South Side police station on the suspicion of having stolen the horse.

Ivanhoe was taken from the stable of Jacob Livingston, at Morgan street and Brownsville avenue, on Monday night. In reporting the theft to the police, Livingston said the animal had a good track record and was valued at $250. The fact that races were being held at the Whitehall driving park yesterday gave the police the hint, and they were rewarded on going there by learning that Rogers and Berry had been there with a very fine bay horse, which they endeavored to enter in the open class. This request was to be granted, but before they had their horse groomed for the track they offered it for sale for $75. The two men and Ivanhoe subsequently disappeared, and it is thought they sold the horse. Berry was arrested near the track, but his alleged confederate started to run toward Fair Haven, and was chased two miles before he surrendered. The horse has not been found.

QUIET FOURTH IN CITY

pieces was a picture of Director Bigelow himself. The crowd made no demonstration over these pictures. The only evidence of interest shown by the audience in the pictures was when those of the Japanese victors, Admiral Togo and Marshal Oyama, were set on fire.

"We had a picture of Mayor Hays to set up, but he objected," said A. G. Pratt, the fireworks man. On the last Fourth a picture of Mayor Hays was shown and the mayor did not wish any more advertising on the eve of his departure from office.

The enthusiasm of the crowd was dampened by the long delay in starting the pyrotechnics. It was not until 9:15 that the first bombs were fired and the "welcome" lighted. The display lasted about an hour, which was mainly consumed by the shooting of skyrockets, so long drawn out as to be tiresome. Rockets to the number of 963 were sent into the air. There was a shout each time one of the four 80-inch shells exploded 500 feet in the air, with a noise that could be heard for five miles. The "Falls of Niagara," formed by a rain of fire falling at an outward angle to the ground, and the release of the American flag in colors from a captive balloon 200 feet above the ground were the best features. There were bombs of various sizes, an illumination of 300 prismatic stars at one time, golden rockets and shells from 3-inch bombs, three 20-inch shells in white and orange, a flight of golden comets and ending with loud reports and Japanese flower gardens.

Set Pieces Are Damaged.

The show was interrupted about 9:45 by a slight rain which had the effect of frightening the half of the crowd from the park. The display took place from the golf links on the hill opposite the Pittsburgh Golf club. The hillsides in front of the club house formed a natural amphitheater which was packed with humanity. When a bomb burst in the air the scene was as brilliantly illuminated as day. A pretty effect was caused by boys scattering green and red fire around the hill at the bottom of the golf links. The storm in the afternoon damaged four set pieces which could not be shown. They were a set photograph of George Westinghouse and a large Grand Army badge, a five-foot pinwheel with attachments, and a picture of a Russian-Japanese naval battle. The city contracted to pay $500 for the fireworks but the destruction of some of the material is expected to reduce the cost below this figure several hundreds of dollars.

Allegheny Celebrates Appropriately.

The anniversary of independence day was celebrated in a most appropriate manner in Allegheny. There was missing from the festivities much of the racket in the streets caused by the promiscuous firewing of explosives on the car tracks, and this was looked upon as a welcome digression from an old custom.

Hundreds of persons in Allegheny contributed to the fund raised by Director Scandrett for the day's entertainment, and probably because of this the fun in West park and the display on Monument hill, and in front of city hall, was regulated somewhat as a family affair. Money that heretofore has been spent on individual displays was given to the public fund and the celebrants gathered in the public parks to share in the arrangements to make the eagle scream.

During the afternoon there were two band concerts in West park. The Grand Army band occupied the pavilion in the big plaza opposite the school house, and the Knights of Pythias band was placed on the knoll opposite the Allegheny seminary. The two bands furnished music all afternoon and entertained thousands.

Besides these attractions there was a Punch and Judy show for the children, a darky troupe of singers and dancers, and an excellent exhibition of expert bag punching. Before the pageant was completed in the afternoon, a heavy rain fell and drove everyone to places of shelter. The attractions that were not gut on in the afternoon were seen early in the evening.

Fireworks on Monument Hill.

Before darkness settled down there were fully 25,000 people in the West parks. From 7 o'clock until 9 the two bands contributed to the enjoyment of the crowd and from that time until almost 11 o'clock the fireworks on Monument Hill drew all eyes in that direction.

The display on the hill was the best ever seen on the North Side. There were the usual bombs, sky rockets, Japanese flower pots and vari-colored balloons, besides set pieces in many forms. Mayor Wyman was shown in a figure of fire, and a huge representation of Niagara Falls ended a most magnificent fireworks display.

Following this there was another display in front of city hall. The sidewalk on Ohio street, between West Diamond and Federal streets, was roped off to keep back the crowd, and with the aid of 25 extra police officers Director Scandrett finished his program for the evening. There were several strings of Chinese fire crackers, holding 25,000 explosives, and one string with 50,000 crackers on it. These were hung from the top of telegraph poles. Then there were batteries, shooting forth balls of red, white and blue fire; big sticks of red and green fire, flaming pin wheels, and many other kinds of fire works carried by various names. The crowd in front of city hall was so dense that street car traffic was almost completely stopped for an hour.

Despite the strenuous manner in which the day was celebrated, no one was injured either on the hill or in front of the hall, and not a serious accident was reported to the police.

MAKES SUCCESSFUL FLIGHT.

Thousands of People Watch the Satisfactory Sailing of an Airship in New York.

NEW YORK, July 4.—(Special)—Operated by Leo Stevens, the California Arrow, an airship that was sailed at the world's fair at St. Louis, made an ascent today at Brighton beach in the presence of thousands of spectators.

When Mr. Stevens brought his ship off of the aerodrome and swung upward into space, a brisk 10-knot breeze was blowing, but this offered no resistance to the progress of the ship, which ascended 200 feet, sailed across the meadows at Brighton beach, circled the race course, put out half a mile to sea, and was then turned and headed back to the aerodrome.

WIND AND RAIN BRING DAMAGE

Thousands of Persons Given Drenching in Parks, and Great Trees Blown Down.

TEMPERATURE REACHED 91

Drenching was the fate thousands who were celebrating the Fourth encountered in a severe storm which broke over the city between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The storm was one feature of a day which came close to breaking the temperature records for the year to date, the thermometer reaching 91 at 2 p. m. June 17, with 92 degrees, still holds the official record.

The breaking of the storm brought the thermometer down 20 degrees to 71. The rain was accompanied by a violent wind from the southwest which caused great damage to trees and other property.

There were two heat prostrations, one victim being Charles Clause, aged 42, of No. 68 George street, Brooklyn, N. Y. He was overcome in Madison avenue, Allegheny, at 3 p. m., and was taken to the Allegheny General hospital. The other victim would not give his name. He was overcome at North avenue and Buena Vista streets, Allegheny, and was taken away in a carriage.

Despite the hot weather many had taken their families and lunch baskets and gone to the parks to seek shelter from the heat under the trees and on the green hills.

Thousands Caught in the Parks.

In Schenley and Highland parks the people were seated about on the grass and many had a tablecloth spread and were preparing for the evening meal when the big storm suddenly broke. In Schenley park there are few places in which people can find shelter and the majority had to take their chances of protection from the rain under the trees.

At Highland park the people gathered up their children and baskets and all ran for the big zoo to get out of the rain. Women carrying and dragging babies by the arms, and the men following behind with baskets, started for the zoo in such large numbers that the race for shelter almost caused a stampede. People who were some distance from the zoo did not reach the buildings before the storm broke with great fury and by the time they reached the shelter place they were drenched with rain. The storm began at 4:15 and continued till 4:30 o'clock.

The rain fell in torrents and those who had umbrellas found them useless, as the great fury of the wind turned them inside out or tore them from the people's hands. Down every path and driveway leading to the zoo the crowds rushed and the handsome big stone stairways leading to the buildings were so crowded with people that progress was slow. The loud rolls of thunder and vivid flashes of lightning frightened the children and for a time there was a general chorus of baby voices.

Excitement in the Zoo.

Inside the cages at the zoo the little ducklings and other waterfowl crowded up close to the screens to allow the water to fall on them, while the big pelicans held out their long bills to catch the raindrops as they were driven into the cages by the wind. The big polar bears had been suffering from the heat all day, but when the rain started they hurried to the front bars of their cages and lay stretched out on the cement floors till their fur was thoroughly drenched.

Just when the rain began to fall a big red, white and blue paper balloon, which had been driven toward Highland park by the wind fell inside the fence in the elks' yard and caused them to stampede. As they were not secured to run to get away from the balloon, there were several collisions between the big animals.

During the storm much foliage was damaged between Oakland and the Highland park section. The wind blew a terrible gale and ripped off the roof of the home of Thomas W. Baker, at 5315 Ward street, Oakland. The house is a two-story brick and the wind lifted the roof clear of the house and dropped it into Ward street. The firemen at No. 24 engine house, Ward and Wilmot streets, went to the assistance of the Baker family, while a telephone message was sent to the Oakland car barn for the traction wagon. No one was injured, but the house was badly damaged. The shattered roof was pulled off the street and the cars were only interrupted for a short time.

Handsome Trees Blown Down.

In North Highland avenue, above Stanton avenue, a handsome silver maple tree was uprooted by the wind and thrown over on the sidewalk. Many of the big trees had large limbs wrenched off by the wind, and North Highland avenue and many of the cross streets looked as though a cyclone had struck the section. Ellsworth avenue also suffered much damage by the wind, as many limbs and sometimes whole trees were brought to the ground by the high wind. From Craig and to Highland avenue many trees were blown down, but none fell across the car tracks. Many large trees on lawns in Ellsworth avenue were also badly damaged. Two fine, big trees were blown down in South Negley avenue, near Ellsworth avenue, and also one large tree in Aiken avenue. In all the side streets big branches were torn off and blown out into the street.

The flag pole at the Shadyside academy was snapped off at the base and fell, and a dead tree, which had been left standing on the St. Paul's cathedral property, Fifth avenue and Craig street, was also blown down, but did no damage, as the tree fell toward the street. In Craft avenue, Oakland, large limbs were ripped from trees, and in one building several screens were torn out of the windows and hurled across the street by the wind.

A flag pole on the Speer property facing Emily street in Oakland was struck by lightning in the height of the storm. The pole is of steel and about 60 feet high. It has weathered many storms. A blinding flash of lightning followed by a terrific crash of thunder was evidence enough that something was struck, and the flag pole seemed to fall. It did not fall prone on the ground, however, but extended in a bent position over the sidewalk. It was evident that the pole was too good a lightning conductor to be shattered, but the force of the fluid twisted it into a spiral shape, so that now it looks like a huge corkscrew.

The greatest force of the storm was felt in Shady avenue between Fifth avenue and Forbes street, where there are 21 telephone poles, electric light poles down, together with five large shade trees. The patrol box at the corner of Denniston and Shady avenues was overthrown by the wind and rolled across the street.

The old church building of the Church of the Ascension at the corner of Neville street and Ellsworth avenue was struck by a falling tree, the top branches breaking windows.

The wind caused the breaking of several plate glass windows in the business district of the East End. C. H. Rowe & Co. had a glass valued at $150 broken; the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, a front window valued at $75, and the Federal Shoe Company of 633 Franklin avenue, a front window, valued at $75.

Country Club in Darkness.

While the storm was at its height the lightning struck the iron flagstaff on the tower of No. 5 engine company's house in Highland avenue, and bent it double, covering the flag, which had not been taken down.

The storm was very severe at the Pittsburgh Country club. All the electric light lines are broken down and there was a deluge of rain. A great celebration of the day was planned and the evening was to be especially gay. Dinner parties had been arranged for the club house, and grounds were in darkness. Servants groped about the place with candles and lanterns and the festivities were brought to an abrupt close.

A wall of the building which is being erected by the Carnegie Union, a newspaper of that borough, was blown down. Trees on the Bridgeville & McDonald branch of the Panhandle railroad were blown across the track and a wreck train had to be sent out to clear the road. At Walker's Mills several thousand feet of the Bell Telephone Company's lines were blown down, crippling the service between Pittsburgh and Panhandle railroad towns.

PRESIDENT IN PITTSBURGH.

Chief Executive Will Be in the City Today, En Route to and From Cleveland.

President Roosevelt will be in Pittsburgh twice today—at 5:20 o'clock this morning and from 8:50 to 9 o'clock this evening.

The special train bearing Mr. Roosevelt, his cabinet and the Hon. Elihu Root, en route to Cleveland, is scheduled to arrive from the east at the Union station at 5:20 o'clock eastern time. There will be a stop of only about five minutes, or just sufficient time for the change of engines. The train will run as a section of the Chicago limited, train No. 22. Owing to the early hour it is improbable that the president or any members of the party will be seen.

Returning from Cleveland, the train is scheduled to arrive at the Union station at 8:50 o'clock and to leave at 9 o'clock as a section of train No. 6. On this occasion there will probably be a delegation of Pittsburghers at the station. The special train consists of four cars—the private Pullman car "Magnet," a composite and a compartment Pullman car, and a Pennsylvania dining car.

SHOE FASHIONS

Among smart dressers the Tan Shoe has become quite the thing again.

This is especially the case in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and is obtaining favor in Pittsburgh.

Tan Shoes for general wear and white duck shoes for evening wear are quite the vogue among ladies who like to feel well dressed.

The styles are mostly low cuts, known as Oxfords—or specially by the shape, as "Court Ties"—and "Gibson Ties," with light or medium weight soles.

Stylish Tan Oxfords and White Duck Oxfords are scarce—many stores in Pittsburgh being afraid to handle them.

We are showing a very large and complete assortment in both lines, and invite ladies generally to inspect them.

The prices range from $1.50 upwards, and we show them in all sizes and widths.

TOWNS PLUNGED INTO DARKNESS

Fire Cripples Power Plant, Miles of Traction Lines and Thousands Incommoded.

LIGHTS GO OUT IN PARKS

Darkness reigned in big towns in the Monongahela and Turtle Creek valleys last night, miles of traction lines were shut down, gloom enveloped traction parks and thousands of people were stranded miles from their homes, because the cars that took them away were not running.

The overloading of an electric power transformer in the big Rankin plant of the Monongahela Light, Heat and Power Company was the indirect cause of the trouble that overtook towns, parks and people. The direct cause was that the transformer exploded, set fire to other transformers and in a few moments $40,000 worth of transformers were put out of business.

The result was that on a large part of the Charleroi line cars quit running, the Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Connellsville traction line, which runs toward Connellsville as far as Scottdaven, was shut down; all attractions at Kennywood, Idora and Olympia parks which are run by electrical power stopped suddenly and when it was time to turn on the electric lights no light came and the people were in darkness; the arc and incandescent lights in McKeesport, Duquesne, Swissvale, East Pittsburgh, Turtle Creek, Wilmerding and Pitcairn failed.

Though it was only a $40,000 fire, it effectually ties up the Charleroi and Connellsville traction lines for perhaps two days, while the darkness enveloping the towns named will last for two nights longer.

Transformer Was Overloaded.

The Monongahela Light, Heat and Power Company's plant in Rankin supplies the towns with light and the traction lines mentioned with power, and these lines radiate in all directions for many miles from that central point. At 7:30 p. m. yesterday one of the transformers in a room on the top floor of the transformer building in Rankin exploded. It was overloaded, so the management afterward said. When the machine blew up it ignited the woodwork of the walls; thence the fire spread to another transformer, which exploded. Only two of the largest machines exploded, but the others were so badly damaged that their usefulness went out in a very few minutes.

The Rankin fire department was soon on the scene and before long the Braddock, and then the Homestead department came to help. By their united efforts they confined the fire to the third floor room in which it had started, but when it was over there was a great tangle of wires. To the uninitiated it looked as if $1,000 would cover the damage inflicted by the fire, but the company's management estimated that the transformers ruined were worth from $40,000 to $50,000, refusing, however, even to attempt to estimate in money value the damage which the extinction of the transformers had caused over miles of territory.

The Lights That Failed.

When the fire was over it was time to turn on the arc lights in Braddock and in Homestead, but no light came. In an hour, however, it was ascertained that the Braddock transformer and the one through which the current for the Homestead arc lights passes were intact and the lights were turned on in those two boroughs and in Rankin, which is supplied from the Braddock line. There were no lights in Wilkinsburg, but at 9 p. m. that borough got a current from the Allegheny County Light Company's plant at Twelfth and Pike streets, Pittsburgh. In all the other boroughs mentioned the lights were not burning last night and may not burn for two or three days, for the company will devote its efforts to getting its traction lines in operation again. Besides the Connellsville division, the present terminal of which is Scottdaven, 12 miles from McKeesport, and the Charleroi line, the company has four branch lines running out from McKeesport, each about four miles long. They are all shut down, to the great inconvenience of the people living along the routes.

It is estimated that there were 15,000 people in Kennywood, Olympia and Idora parks. Suddenly Ferris wheels stopped, with passengers in mid air; mystic rivers ceased to flow and boatloads of explorers were left in gloomy caves; merry-go-rounds stopped revolving and the fun was over.

Consternation Seized Merry Makers.

It was still daylight when the power went off, but when it was time to light up and the parks remained in darkness consternation seized the people, those in Olympia and Idora parks being particularly annoyed when they found that the cars were not running. The Kennywood cars receive their power from a power house of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, so that the job of bringing the people away could be begun at once. It was hours, however, before that park was emptied, and in the meantime a number of detectives were sent by the Pittsburgh Railways Company to the park for the protection of the people who in the darkness were at the mercy of possible thieves and pickpockets.

The Monongahela company engaged a special train on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad to take the Olympia park patrons away, and the train came to Pittsburgh, dropping passengers off all the way. Idora park patrons lived along the Charleroi line, and how they got home nobody knew last night.

McKeesport is a town of 40,000 inhabitants and there the arc lights went out, and when storekeepers went to their places of business to turn on the incandescent lights and give the streets a partial illumination no light responded to the turn of the switch.

An extra force of policemen was then put on and private watchmen redoubled their vigilance.

BISHOP LAYS CORNERSTONE.

St. Matthew's Polish Roman Catholic Congregation on South Side Holds Big Jubilee.

The Rt. Rev. J. Regis Canevin, bishop of Pittsburgh, yesterday officiated at the laying of the corner stone of St. Matthew's Slavish Roman Catholic church at South Nineteenth and Mary streets. At 2 o'clock in the morning a parade took place, headed by Inspector Thomas B. Werner and eight mounted police of the South Side district. Organizations from the Polish, German, Lithuanian and Slavonic churches, with three brass bands, escorted the dignitaries of the church.

Bishop Canevin was assisted in the ceremonies by the Rev. Father S. Firdak of Cleveland; the Rev. Father John Martyon of Johnstown; the Rev. Father John Stas of Olyphant, and other visiting priests. The new church and parish house will cost $40,000. The building will be of brick with stone trimmings and will be ready for occupancy about November 1.

SHOOTS SISTER-IN-LAW.

Mrs. Clara Howe of Allegheny Struck by Bullet Accidentally Fired by Mrs. Benjamin Howe.

Mrs. Clara Howe, aged 21 years, was shot through the flesh of the left side of her neck yesterday afternoon accidentally by a revolver in the hands of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Benjamin Howe. Mrs. Clara Howe is the wife of Fireman John Howe of the Allegheny department, and resides at 102 West Lafayette avenue, Allegheny.

Mrs. Bejamin Howe found the revolver, a new 22-caliber weapon, under a pillow in Mrs. John Howe's bedroom. She was handing it to her sister-in-law when it went off. The physician who dressed the wound said that it would not be dangerous unless tetanus germs were blown into it.

TEUTONS ENJOY FOURTH OF JULY

German-American Celebration at McKinley Park Replete With Patriotic Incidents.

DUTY OF LEARNING GERMAN

A Fourth of July celebration, replete with patriotic incidents was held yesterday in McKinley park. It was a celebration for the German-Americans. A patriotic speech was made in German by the Rev. Beiswenger, and Congressman A. J. Barchfeld made another speech in English. Both speeches dwelt on the debt of gratitude which Americans owe to the Germans.

Patriotic airs, such as the march from "Tannhaeuser," "der Tag des Herrn," und "das Deutsche Lied," "Am Altar der Wahrheit" and the "Blue Danube," impressed lessons of patriotism on the young German-Americans present. All the composers represented, as the program proudly explained, were Germans, except one, and he, Rossini, was an Italian.

It was an animated scene. Just outside the park were booths for amusement and refreshment. A merry-go-round furnished fun to the children for a consideration; a famous fakir brought custom to the enclosure where one could get a cigar by knocking down with balls as many paddies as counted 30, and the German Lutheran church had a stand at which sandwiches, lemonade and pop were sold.

America's Debt to Germany.

The park was full of children, who jumped about uttering patriotic ejaculations in German, while their fathers uttered deep "hochs," intended for "hooray," when the speakers spoke of that debt of gratitude owned by America to the Germans. It is true that a non-hyphenated American thunderstorm broke over the park and drove the merrymakers thence, but after the storm blew over and the sun came out again, they returned and listened to the band play, "A Night in Berlin," a fantasia on English, Scotch and Irish airs and other melodies appropriate to the occasion. The rain was hard while it lasted, but it blew over early enough to enable the sun to dry off the grass, after which the children and the parents spent the evening drinking in the Fourth of July strains just mentioned.

The program opened with the air "America," by the Braddock Carnegie Library band of 50 pieces. Then followed the song "America" and "The Star-Spangled Banner," sung by the school children and everybody. The Rev. Mr. Beiswenger, pastor of the Bethlehem Lutheran church of the Thirty-first ward, spoke. Mr. Beiswenger's patriotic sentiments were loudly cheered. He said that he owed to his parents his facility in the German language. All parents of German or German-American descent ought to see that their children learn the German language. It was a duty these parents owed to America. The west was far ahead of the east in this matter for in the west German was taught in the public schools, while in the east there was a dark outlook that eventually the congregation to which German was preached would be turned into congregations who understood only English, unless they had learned German in Germany. He said America owed a great debt of gratitude to Germany for sending Germans here.

Barchfeld Draws Forth Hochs.

Congressman Barchfeld also dwelt on the debt of gratitude. The forefathers of the people standing in front of him had, he said, by signing the Declaration of Independence and uniting the 13 colonies with a republic established the right to think, to live and worship God according to the dictates of one's conscience. This statement was received with heartfelt "hochs."

"I want to go on record in this, my congressional district," said the congressman, "as saying that you and yours have established this government on a peace basis. War will be abolished for time and eternity."

Congressman Barchfeld explained that he was one of the delegates selected by the government to attend the international peace congress in Belgium this summer and he thought the congress would result in the abolition of war and the establishment of peace and of arbitration.

Only two speeches were made. Then followed an exhibition by the Turners of Mt. Oliver and Allentown. Just then the storm broke over the park, and when the people reassembled there were some children's sports. The rest of the afternoon and evening the band played.

The day's festivities were preceded by a parade, in three divisions, which marched over Southern avenue, Arlington avenue, Ward and Maple streets, Beltzhoover avenue and Gearing street to the park. The first division was escorted by a platoon of police and consisted of the Braddock band, G. A. R. Post 253, the German Military association and the German Beneficial association. The second division contained the Germania band, the German military associations and the Allentown and Beltzhoover school children, Tribe 189 of the Independent Order of Redmen, 50 boys dressed as Indians, the St. Clair Maennerchor and the Beltzhoover Leiderkranz. The third division was led by the Edgar Thomson band of Braddock and contained the Mt. Oliver volunteer fire department and citizens in carriages.

SAVINGS OF SIX YEARS ARE ALL BURNED UP

Forbes Street Tenement Is Destroyed by Flames and the Landlord Suffers a Severe Loss.

In a fire which wiped out a tenement containing eight families early yesterday morning, Peter Pukalski lost $800 which he had withdrawn last week from a Penn avenue bank and kept in a cupboard wrapped up in an old newspaper.

The building which was burned was in Forbes street, near Brady. Pukalski was the landlord of the seven families beside his own, located there. Only with much difficulty were the women and children taken out, and it required the efforts of several of his countrymen to prevent Pukalski from rushing back into the ruins to get his money.

The savings of six years, earned by work in the Soho plant of the National Tube Company, and by keeping boarders in the house were destroyed by the fire. The total loss, building and all, is placed at $1,500. The cause is supposed to have been sparks from a Baltimore & Ohio engine setting a pile of rubbish in the rear on fire.

Car and Garbage Wagon Collide.

A Western avenue car collided with a garbage wagon of the Allegheny Reduction Company at the bridge over the Ft. Wayne in Western avenue, Allegheny, yesterday morning. The rear end of the wagon and the front end of the car were badly smashed and the driver of the wagon, Mike Mixik, was hurt about the head and legs. He was taken to his home on Page street.

SOMETHING NEW! "WORD HUNT"
$50.00 IN PRIZES
For Four Words Selected From
NEXT SUNDAY'S GAZETTE

Rules and Conditions of the "Word Hunt."

The hunt consists of selecting four words from the advertisements appearing in next Sunday's issue of The Pittsburgh Gazette.

In selecting such words you are privileged to use each letter of the alphabet four times, but not more.

Each letter of the alphabet has a value in points, according to its location in the alphabet. For example, A is one point, B, two points; C, three points, etc. This would make the letter Z count twenty-six points.

The persons selecting the four words aggregating the greatest number of points (on the basis described above) will receive the prizes. We give below examples to demonstrate the difference in value of words. Take the word "Furniture."
6—21—18—14—9—20—21—18—5
F—U—R—N—I—T—U—R—E
It contains nine letters and represents 124 points, whereas you take the word "Handkerchief"
8—1—14—4—11—5—18—8—5—6
H—A—N—D—K—E—R—C—H—I—E—F
It contains twelve letters, which only represent 88 points.

Answers must give the words selected, explain from what ad they were taken and where the ad is located in the paper. This is necessary to properly check the answers. After each word must be given the number of points it represents; at the bottom of the sheet the total of the points represented in the four words. Sign your name and address plainly.

Answers will be numbered as they reach the desk of the Manager of the Hunt and should a tie occur the one first received will be declared the prize winner.

Every person is eligible to enter the Hunt except employes of The Pittsburgh Gazette and members of their families.

All answers must be sent in on the blank form provided in The Sunday Gazette.

No contestant will be awarded more than one prize.

All answers must be in The Gazette office by 9:00 a. m. of the following Thursday.

Answers must be addressed to Manager "Word Hunt," The Gazette, Pittsburgh, Pa., and either sent by mail or delivered in person at our Business Office.

Any answer which does not comply strictly to the foregoing rules will not be considered.

Any points not covered in the above rules will be decided in an equitable manner by the Sunday Editor of The Gazette and the Manager of this contest.

Wednesday, July 5, 1905.

Robert E. Peary, with his wife, children and nurse, is ready to take another start for the pole and he is now on board the Roosevelt in New York harbor waiting for more funds to make the expedition a success. The women expect to leave the party in Greenland so that all the suffering incidental to the journey will probably fall on the men when the strenuous part of the work begins. Their conspicuousness at the start, however, is characteristic of Peary's expeditions, which have been socially successful, although they failed to locate the mysterious pole.

Judge Alton B. Parker was so pleased with the reception of the idea he advanced during the campaign that present evils should be remedied by the drastic application of existing remedies that he is constantly referring to it. In his letter to the Tammany celebration in New York yesterday he applied this suggestion to the current talk about municipal ownership which he considers an incipient form of socialism, and the resort to over-government in order to check the perils from greed. To correct corruption he would separate business from politics rather than uniting them in government control.

A southerner, who went surety on a defaulting postmaster's bond, put in a counter claim when an attempt was made to collect from him. In this curious bill he included the value of his slaves which were set at liberty during the civil war. To the plea that the government ought to practice the principles of the golden rule, he added the fact that he has been waiting many years for an opportunity to get even with the authorities for the injuries they inflicted on him. While the legality of this offset will hardly be recognized, it is scarcely more absurd than some of the counter-claims made in ordinary practice.

The announcement of the verdict that a United States senator had been guilty of receiving money resulting from practice before a department of the government, which was read amid the din of the celebration of our independence, has an unpleasant significance. In the case of Senator Burton the application of a sentence was averted, and extenuating circumstances will no doubt be urged in favor of Senator Mitchell. But the existence of fraud in the land department cannot be denied, and now the principle that a United States senator should not even allow his law partner to be interested in the profits from government lands is made clear.

The report that Sweden is to mobilize an army is not improbable in view of the resolute stand that government has taken against the division proposed by Norway. Demands will be exchanged, and either nation will be in a better position to enforce them when backed by a military force. The probability of actual war with Norway is not discussed as yet, as some form of mutual agreement is expected as the outcome of the secession. But the fact that the king of Sweden is considered a peace maker will not be accepted as a warrant for peace after the czar became involved when he had established The Hague court.

The calamity which destroyed a thousand lives at Guanajuata, Mexico, is a startling reminder of the Johnstown flood. Like the city on the Conemaugh, Guanajuata is built in a gorge-like valley, and it was thought at first that a dam had given way, though now it is said a cloudburst was responsible for the torrent carrying death and destruction down upon the city. The water had no chance to spread, but came in a solid wall, sweeping everything before it. Western Pennsylvania can sympathize with the stricken Mexican community, and appreciate both the magnitude and horror of the disaster, though the perspective of distance lets it appear less important than some railroad wreck in which a few score are sacrificed.

The Day After.

Pittsburgh had a quiet Fourth yesterday, the quietest since the expanding city has aspired to the adjective "Greater." The dynamite cane and the cannon cracker were comparatively silent; the streets could have been safely navigated even by a Russian fleet; and the patriot with a bucket of red paint was conspicuous by being few and far between. It was a quiet Fourth, and Pittsburgh does not seem to be any the worse for it. In fact, it was so enjoyable in many ways that people are hoping it has come to stay.

Elsewhere, to judge by casualty reports, the Eagle screamed with undiminished vocal powers, and also singed a few of its feathers. It seems that the noise of the Fourth has become so closely bound up with the celebration, that it would be almost as easy to abolish the day as to alter its observance. We are not much worse than other nations in this respect, however, and if Guy Fawkes day and Sedanstag are celebrated with less blustor, it is probably because the small boy and the large boy across the water have less cash. The love of blare and glare is one of the primal instincts humanity has been unable to suppress, and probably will never succeed in eradicating. As long as this instinct lives torch light processions will continue to demonstrate the benefits of protection and a gold standard, the Salvation Army's big bass drum will proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord, and the sizz-boom-bang celebration of the Fourth will continue. But that it can be modified without abating our health and happiness one whit was shown by Pittsburgh's peaceful Fourth yesterday, which proves that there could be a very considerable diminution in the noisy glee of the celebration without incurring a suspicion of a decline in patriotism.

As the reports from elsewhere come in, and the loss of life, limb and property is footed up, thoughtful people will ask: Is it worth while? The records of 1903 show that 466 lives were lost in the celebration of the Fourth throughout the United States—and the American loss in the battle of Bunker Hill was only 449. There will probably be a sum total of 5,000 casualties as a result of yesterday's celebration, a loss that would have crippled Washington's army at any time during the revolution. The unpatriotic statistician can easily figure out that it would have been much cheaper to let King George and Lord North win the war. But the unstatistical patriot doesn't mind an eye or a leg, and so the Eagle screams as loudly as he can and the Tetanus Germ chortles in his glee. That this need not be so is the great lesson which Pittsburgh has learned, and other cities ought to heed.

The Hay Obsequies.

In accordance with the simple, straightforward character of the man, the last rites for the dead over all that is mortal of John Hay at Cleveland today will be of the most unobtrusive and simple kind. The president will be there to pay a last tribute to the memory of his dead friend and adviser, while the cabinet officers will act as honorary pall bearers. The quiet going away of this great diplomat and loyal American, and the reverent but quiet services that will mark his funeral are so thoroughly in keeping with Mr. Hay's well-known tastes and desires while living, that a more elaborate display of national official and personal grief would be out of harmony with the occasion, however much Mr. Hay's place in American public life might deserve the pomp and panopoly of public demonstration. The dead statesman was in life a man of exceedingly retiring disposition. He was sensitive to the limelight of public attention, and so secluded himself from the public gaze that he suffered more than once the charge of ultra exclusiveness. This was not the case. With all his greatness John Hay was a modest man, and counted his splendid gifts first always in relation to their value to his country.

It is fitting, therefore, that his funeral should bear the marks of unobtrusive grief. But none the less a great man has gone from among us, and it will be hard indeed to fill the place he has left vacant. While the nation bows in sympathy with the stricken family at Cleveland today, it will look with interest and some trepidation toward that vacant chair in the family councils of the chief executive.

Summer Conventions.

This year's "world's fair" at Portland, Ore., will not have all the annual conventions of public organizations. St. Louis was successful in attracting many delegates who wished to enjoy the fair in connection with the yearly session of the organization in which they were most interested, but Oregon does not offer equal advantages of location, and so its fair will generally attract those who wish to see the exhibit for its own merits. The conventions of trade organizations and professional guilds are generally limited in size and are not successful in attracting those who join an excursion for the sake of the trip and the social opportunities it offers. But an organization like the National Educational association not only has a large membership, but its sessions prove attractive to thousands of recreation seekers, in a similar way the Christian Endeavor conventions have had an attendance that taxed the hospitality of the meeting places.

Both these organizations are meeting this week, the teachers at Asbury Park, N. J., and the Endeavorers in Baltimore. It is estimated that about 35,000 will attend the teachers' meeting, and interest in the gathering will be increased by the promise of President Roosevelt to address them Friday. It is difficult to estimate in advance the number of excursionists who will gather in Baltimore, for interest in such rallies has decreased since the days when they swarmed over New York city and invaded Boston in force, for the organization was then comparatively young, and its novelty inspired enthusiasm. But as conventions these two best illustrate the willingness of people to defy discomforts of heat and cramped quarters to gather together in aid of a common cause.

The Cost of Living.

The bureau of labor in the department of commerce and labor at Washington has issued a bulletin showing the comparative cost of clothing, food products and fuel over a range of years from 1890 to 1904. Within this period the average price of 70 articles of clothing has increased 32.6 per cent, and in 52 articles of food all but 14 have increased in price.

It does not require an expert statistician to demonstrate the fact that the cost of living is high. Any housewife who has control of the family pocketbook knows that money does not go as far today as it did some years ago. It is a singular fact that this increased cost of the necessaries of life has occurred simultaneously with the greatest evolution of business methods aimed at reduction in the cost of production. The lowest average price ever registered in this country for articles of necessary daily consumption occurred in July, 1897, when Dun's Index Number was 72.45. At the present time this Index Number is approximately 99. Within the past eight years it has been as high as 101.91, but the latter was recorded during the period when the Sully cotton "corner" was being engineered, and was therefore abnormal. It was in 1898, the year following the date when commodity values were at their lowest ebb, that the need of doing something for producers became most pressing. Relief measures took the direction of industrial and commercial consolidations. The latter were designed as much to reduce the cost of production as to regulate output and raise prices. Indeed, the latter suggestion was carefully avoided in order to avert public antagonism, and great stress was laid upon the cheapening of costs in which the public would have its full share. Scarcely had one group of producers consolidated, however, until these larger units were combined, forming the largest aggregations in the world's history.

In the light of experience it now looks as if the producers in the later '90s seized the opportunity furnished by the speculative fever of that time to recoup their previous losses by the sale of cheap securities rather than by the sale of cheaper commodities. At all events, it is apparent that overcapitalization was a serious defect of the relief plans of the consolidation era, and no doubt the effort to maintain dividends on inflated values has had something to do with the current high cost of the necessaries of life.

Two other factors entered the situation, however, which together have probably had as much to do with enhancing costs as the alleged artificial restraints upon competition which are charged against the trade combinations. These were: First, the tendency toward extravagance, individual and national, which followed the rebound in business from the long era of depression from 1893 to 1897; and second, the unprecedented increase in gold production. No extended comment need be made on the first of these factors—a little self-examination will demonstrate its truth. As to the effect of increased gold production, the opinions of financial economists differ, but there is much plausibility in the argument of Joseph French Johnson in his address delivered at the recent convention of the Pennsylvania Bankers' association. Mr. Johnson, who is regarded as an expert on the subject, pointed out that in 1895 the world's production of gold was $200,000,000. The total for 1905 will probably be double that amount. An addition of only $50,000,000 to the banking reserves of the United States would permit of an expansion of between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 of bank credit. The latter would be available for borrowers for the purchase of goods and labor. "Thus this new gold, in the form of currency or credit, will sooner or later increase the demand for various goods, and so cause their prices to rise." The first effects would be felt in stocks and bonds, then in speculative commodities, touching wholesale prices first, then retail, and finally rents, wages and salaries.

Between 1890 and 1897 the paramount question in the United States related to the declining prices of commodities and the deplorable condition of the producer, and out of conditions then prevailing grew the free silver and other legislative fallacies. The question now before the public is rising prices and the condition of consumers, and before it is satisfactorily answered we are likely to witness much legislative experimenting.

Now that envoys have been named by both Russia and Japan it may be reasonably hoped that negotiations will get under way some time between now and Thanksgiving Day.

No prizes have been announced, but the Philadelphia political situation seems to be able to attract more guessers to the square inch than any other game now on.

An Ohio man advocates intermarriage between whites and blacks as a solution of the race problem. The gentleman is already married to a wife of his own race.

The small boy may have a finger or so less and be somewhat dilapidated about the face, but he feels better and knows more.

Attorney Brennan, who is to judge the merits of the prize babies, had better get his cyclone cellar in good working order.

It would be hard to convince most Pittsburghers that the weather man is patriotic.

Gone is the sizzle and boom,
Likewise the joy and laughter;
The skyrocket stick lies broken and bent,
The small boy, bandaged, his energy spent,
Weeps in the dawn of the morning after.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Well, did you do it?—did you celebrate Uncle Sam's birthday in a spirit and manner befitting the occasion?

Or, were you one of the many who were out for a time, good or bad, and never once thought of the day being the nation's natal day, a day on which began the greatest changes that have ever occurred in the political history of the world?

It has been said that the guns that boomed at Lexington and Bunker Hill were heard around the world.

If the sound has not already reached every distant nook and corner it will yet be heard. Some people have heard it but lately, and some are hearing it only now, so that we should not become weary in the cause of human liberty, but rather become more energetic, and more generous.

While there remains a downtrodden, an enslaved, or a benighted people on the face of the earth our work will not be done.

There are some amongst us who are so narrow, and so selfish, as to hold that we should attend strictly to our own business here at home, giving no attention to what others are doing, except in so far as their acts interfere with our affairs.

This had been our policy until after the war of the rebellion was concluded and the union restored, for until then the United States had not been numbered among the world powers.

* * *

The two-score years that have elapsed since the final and firm restoration of the union have placed us among the foremost of world powers, and it is up to us to maintain this position, and to strive to place our flag clearly in advance of all others.

Before the war the world powers would say, "The United States are—" but now they say, "The United States is—" is a united whole, a single compact body, a nation, and not a confederation of more or less independent states.

No longer do we hear wrangling over state's rights, independent of or different from the rights derived from the Constitution upon which our government is founded.

While it is true that each state has its own government, still it is a close copy of the national government, both in manner and purpose. And so are our forms of municipal government copied from the state and national governments.

This arrangement not only enables the various governmental bodies to act in perfect unison, but prevents confusion, such as existed while some states claimed to have sovereign rights, some to the right to withdraw, or to secede from the federal government.

That source of trouble has been effectually removed, so that now, and hereafter, each state must act as an integral part of the nation, which is the United States, and Old Glory is its banner.

* * *

While having a good time yesterday playing ball, or watching others playing, or when you were eating a picnic dinner, or enjoying the company of your sweetheart, you may not have thought of the proud position your country and your flag occupies in the world today.

The president is fairly in the center of the world's political stage, with the spot lights of each and every world power turned full upon him.

Two of the powers whose potentials had not been accurately determined, entered the war arena to establish their respective ratings.

This has long been the method for determining the rating of a nation, but it is becoming unpopular, and will become more so as education, and civilization advances. It is in these that our country excels, and it was in the interest of these in particular, and in the interest of humanity in general, that our president entered a protest against the continuance of the bloody prize fight going on between Russia and Japan.

These belligerents knowing, or at least believing, that he was above intrigue, and that this nation was disinterested and free from all political entanglements with either of the warring nations, or with any other for that matter, turned to him, not as an umpire, or referee, but as to a friend, and as a friend he suggested a peaceful, reasonable, rational way in which they could settle their quarrel without dishonor to either.

They promptly acted upon his suggestion, and selected our capital city as the place of meeting.

* * *

It may not have occurred to you, while sweltering in the hot glare of the sun, that that sun never sets on Uncle Sam's possessions. When it is sunset here it is sunrise there, and so on, until it has made the circuit of the earth.

And you may not have recalled the fact, while famishing for a drink of ice water, that on our northern borders there were stacks and piles of ice, and snow-capped mountains were sending down rivers of ice water.

And as you ate of rare tropical fruits that grow under the folds of your flag, it may not have entered your mind that while the snows never entirely leave our northern borders, they have never been known to reach our far south lands.

Thus are we protected against famine, for frosts and droughts and storms are never general over such wide areas as our flag covers, much less universal.

There is always sunshine somewhere, and seed time and harvest do not fail everywhere on the face of the earth.

Nowhere are harvests more abundant than where our flag floats. Indeed, prosperity has always followed our flag, for which every one of its defenders should devoutly thank God, and take courage.

Yes, take courage, for every step the flag advances means additional cares and responsibilities, and dangers, too, for danger is lurking everywhere, not only in new and untried fields, but right in the midst of enterprise and prosperity.

And, let us not forget.

* * *

Now that it is all over maybe you will find time to think about these things.

Or, maybe it is not all over with you, for you may be among those who celebrated not wisely but too much, and as a result you may be minus an eye, or a limb, or carrying around with you a sore hand or a sore head, or merely not feeling very well yourself.

These are folly's trophies, and she is very liberal with them. And what a lot of votaries she has, and how persistent they are in their appeals for trophies, such as they are.

But, let us suppose that you are sound and sane, for it is just as easy, and just as reasonable, to suppose you are all right as that you are all wrong.

Supposing then that you are sound in body and sane in mind, let us hope that you may so continue until next Fourth of July, and to the next, and so on to the end; and that you may never forget for a single day that you are a part of the greatest nation under the sun; and that being part and parcel of it, you have certain duties to perform, and certain responsibilities to share, even to share with the president in the direction of the affairs of the nation.

Raleigh's Song.

Love who singest before the dawn,
Give thy kisses unto me.
Love who singest when day is gone,
Bring thy sad tears unto me.
On earth below, in heaven above,
I would know all the ways of love.

Love who art sad, thine eyes are sweet
And, ah, thy lips are lovely still.
Love who art glad, thy happy feet
May climb the path of heaven's hill;
But here on earth, or there above,
I would know all the ways of love.

TALKED OF IN GOTHAM

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 4.—New York was like a deserted village today. A Sunday calm pervaded the principal avenues all day long, and it was not until the electric lights beamed forth that the crowds began to gather in Broadway and other sections of the Tenderloin for the annual celebration of the Fourth. Broadway is essentially a night-time street. The habitues of the great thoroughfare are seldom "at home" during the day. They hear the call of the ponies or gather at the seaside resorts, except when staying quietly indoors waiting for the glimmer of the street lights. But when the nighttime comes, the Rialto blazes forth in all its glory and the worshipers at the shrine of Bacchus gather around and make merry until the light is seen in the east.

It was a quiet day in all sections of the city, except in the lower East Side, where there is too little spare change to waste any of it on long trolley or excursion steamer rides. Down there, the small boys who could secure the ammunition celebrated the Fourth with all the zest of true native born Americans, though the majority of them do not know what all the noise is about. Still, so long as they were having the time of their lives, the day was well spent.

A trip out Fifth avenue or along Madison avenue serves to show how great is the summer exodus in New York, and after such a stroll, one is never surprised to see the streets of the city all but deserted. Almost half the homes of the wealthy are closed and boarded up; and only the voice of the caretaker, or the wail of a deserted and hungry cat breaks the stillness. It is a sorry day for the shopkeepers who depend upon the trade of the wealthy when summer time comes, for their business falls to almost nothing. One dealer remarked the other day that although he received many mail orders from his regular customers during the summer, he never takes in enough money to pay clerk hire.

Great Crowds at the Piers.

The morning rush for the seaside resorts brought great crowds at the piers, and the police were powerless to regulate the traffic. The rush was so great to board the steamboat Siberia for Asbury Park, that a panic ensued, and several women and children were trampled under foot and seriously injured. Only two policemen were on duty at that point and they might as well have been in their stations, so little could they do to stem the tide of struggling humanity. The screams of the women and children caught in the crush could be heard for blocks, and scores of men rushed to the scene, only adding to the panic and crowd, without any way being of practical use. Finally the boat got away with a full quota of passengers and the injured returned to their homes to spend the day, nursing their bruises.

No Real Celebration in Gotham.

There was no real celebration of the Fourth in New York. True, Tammany had the usual "long and short" speeches, and listened to the reading of a long letter of regret from Judge Parker, but for the most part, the day was given over to sport in the greater city. Gov. Glenn of North Carolina was the chief feature of the Tammany celebration and he told us mainly what we knew already, that the people of New York—and especially the chiefs of Tammany—live too fast. He did not specialize on how the Tammanyites are too rapid in their gait, but most of us can fit that in to suit our own ideas and we wouldn't dare mention the fact that Chief Murphy's speed is mainly in gathering in profitable contracts for semi-official jobs. Should the governor remain in the city for long, he may learn quite a lot about speed.

Killed While Lying in Bed.

The most unique feature of New York's celebration of the Fourth is that the first victim was lying in bed sleeping when a stray bullet passed through his heart. One is supposed to be perfectly safe from harm when remaining in one's bedroom, but in this case Morris Guggenheim, a tailor, was in the most dangerous part of the whole country, though he didn't know it. It is the usual thing for the innocent by-stander to get the worst of every occasion, when there is any shooting going on, but it is hardly intended that a stray bullet will seek a man out in his own home, a block away, and claim him as its especial victim.

Want to See Where It All Happened.

Employes of the Equitable building are kept busy these days. It appears that every out-of-town visitor to the financial section of Greater New York wants to see the building which housed the warring factions of the big insurance society, and they come in droves every day. The attaches of the building show them every courtesy, because one cannot tell at a glance whether the "looker" holds a $10,000 policy or a bigger one. The Equitable building is really one of the show places of the city, but few people discovered that fact until the recent scrubbing brought the society and its officers so prominently before the public. There are so many structures in the city, but few give a visitor the same impression of richness and stability that the Equitable does. The feature is the second story, with its carved mahogany doors, the wonderful bronze railing and the monster oxidized chandelier with an electric clock.

Garlic Wins in Strength Test.

A large consignment of garlic piled upon the baggage of 500 immigrants who arrived in the White Star liner Romanic yesterday was strong enough to hold the passengers in the city over night, though they were to have taken a Fall River line steamer last evening. When an attempt was made to get the baggage out of the hold of the Romanic, it was found that the garlic had fermented and raised a gas so suffocating that it was impossible for anyone to enter the hold. It took all day to remove it. Meanwhile the immigrants were taken to Ellis Island. Commissioner Watchorn would not allow them to remain there over night, and the steamship officials found them lodgings in the Polish Home and in nearby lodging houses. This morning they went on their way, much to the nasal discomfort of the other passengers on the Fall River steamer, who are not partial to the odor of garlic.

Chicago Needs an Explosion.

From the Chicago Journal.

It is time that the business world's atmosphere was cleared by some such explosion as the conviction and imprisonment of a few highly respectable business men. It would be an inestimable benefit to every honest business man who wants to make his money fairly and is in continual terror lest he may become the next victim marked by the business hogs for slaughter.

THE ENDEAVORERS

Hay's Hymn Feature of Convention.

Conservative estimates place the attendance at the Christian Endeavor convention at Baltimore this week at 35,000, while some of the committee believe that the number of visitors will be still greater. A feature of the gathering this year will be the singing of the hymn entitled "Humility," which John Hay, the late secretary of state, wrote especially for the world's convention of Christian Endeavor when it met in Washington a number of years ago. This was sung to the music of an old hymn, but recently special music has been prepared for the words so that they may form a part of the program for the convention. The hymn sprang into popularity at once, but there is patheticinterest in the rendering this time on account of Mr. Hay's recent death. These are the words:

Lord! from far-severed climes we come
To meet at last in Thee, our home.
Thou who hast been our guide and guard
Be still our hope, our rich reward.

Defend us, Lord, from every ill;
Strengthen our hearts to do Thy will.
In all we plan and all we do
Still keep us to Thy service true.

O let us hear the inspiring word
Which they of old at Horeb heard:
Breathe to our hearts the high command,
"Go onward and possess the land."

Thou who art Light, anoint on each soul
Thou who art Truth, each mind control!
Open our eyes and make us see
The path which leads to heaven and Thee!

Origin of the Society.

The story of the Christian Endeavor movement is rapidly becoming a familiar one, and yet it has a romantic interest that time can never render commonplace. The society originated in a revival which in the winter of 1880-81 affected the Williston church, Portland, Me. Rev. Francis E. Clark, the pastor, had been conducting a large pastor's class of boys and girls, whose members were bound to their work by a pledge very similar to the present Christian Endeavor pledge.

On the evening of February 2, 1881, the first Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor was formed in the pastor's study, with essentially the present constitution, pledge and methods of work. The first signer, Mr. W. W. Pennell, afterward became the first president of the United society, and is now one of its trustees. So successful was the society in the Williston church that Dr. Clark was led to publish an account of the new methods of work for young people. His article, "How One Church Cares for Its Young People," published in August, 1881, in the Congregationalist, and a similar article published later in the Sunday School Times, created widespread interest, and like societies began to multiply.

In October, 1881, the second Christian Endeavor society was founded by Rev. C. P. Mills of Newburyport, Mass. Before the end of the year four more societies were formed, one each in Rhode Island, Maine, Vermont and Ohio. One of the earliest societies was formed by another Portland pastor, Rev. C. A. Dickinson, D. D., who has always been one of the most ardent promoters of the movement, and is now one of the trustees of the United society. Without concerted effort and almost without notice the Christian Endeavor ideas were scattered abroad, and took root in widely sundered localities. A little more than a year after the establishment of the first society, when only six societies were recorded, June 2, 1882, the first Christian Endeavor convention was held at the Williston church.

After another year, on June 7, 1883, in the Second Parish church of Portland, the second annual convention was held. By this time the societies had grown to 53, with an enrolled membership of 5,835. Forty-one of these were in New England, five in New York, and the rest scattered throughout the west as far as California.

How It Has Grown and Spread.

Early the next year, March 27, 1884, the Christian Endeavor cause took another step in advance with the formation of the first junior society, organized by Rev. J. W. Cowan of Tabor, Ind. The third national convention was not held until October 22, 1884. It met this time at Lowell, Mass., in a two-day session; 151 societies were reported, with 8,314 members. November 18, 1885, the first state union, that of Connecticut, was formed. The convention of 1885 was the first to be held on the Christian Endeavor dates, July 2 and 9. This was at Old Orchard, the famous seaside resort in Maine. At this convention the United Society of Christian Endeavor was founded and incorporated. To this convention, also, came the news that the movement had reached foreign countries, and societies were reported from China, the Hawaiian Islands and other distant regions. By this time the movement had formed 253 societies, with 14,302 members. In 1904 the organization had 64,851 societies and 3,885,240 members scattered all over the world.

When the national society was formed it was hoped that it might include members of young people's societies in all Evangelical Protestant denominations, but leaders in sects favored societies of their own to train children according to their peculiar creeds. Thus we have the Epworth league in the Methodist church and the Young People's union in the Baptist church which correspond to the Endeavor society. But the original organization continues undenominational and insists that its societies shall be connected with some church as an auxiliary.

Thought He Said Grace.

A minister was the guest of an Emporia family at dinner the other day and the man of the house asked him to say grace. After he had concluded everything was silent for a few seconds, and then the 5-year-old son spoke up: "That's a whole lot longer grace than papa said last night," was his comment. "Why? What did father say last night?" inquired the minister. "Oh, he came in and sat down at the table and said, 'Good Lord, what a meal!'"—Kansas City Journal.

The Throne of Delhi.

The famous throne of Delhi is to be restored, for Lord Curzon has written to the British ambassador at Rome to send him the best man who can work in hard stones. He has succeeded in securing one of the greatest Florentine artists, and the work begun by Italians three centuries ago will now be continued in accordance with the design originally planned.

The Lump in Her Throat.

"'And when the hero spoke,'" read the college girl with the novel, "'there was a lump in the heroine's throat.'"

"Poor girl," sighed her chum, "I bet she felt bad."

"Not at all; she felt good."

"And how was that?"

"Why, it was a lump of ice cream."—Detroit Tribune.

Vineless Potatoes.

A Great Falls, Mont., man has produced potatoes without vines, and asserts that he is now able to supply new potatoes for the market at any season of the year. The inventor will not reveal the process in detail. He has conducted his experiments in a box 6x8 feet, in which there is a steam coil for heating.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Accords With Western Landscape.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

We wish that the buffalo might be preserved and permitted to roam the wilds again, even if only because he accords with the western woolly landscape, but it is to be feared that the experiment will not be wholly successful until some one has shown that "it can be made to pay."

Civic Pride and Subscription.

As Philadelphia claims a very high order of civic pride, it may be well to remind her that there are 2,600 subscribers to Gotham's Metropolitan Museum of Art, while the Boston Museum of Fine Arts has to its credit a list of more than 1,100 annual contributors.—Philadelphia Record.

PICKED UP IN LOBBIES

Motley Crowd Goes and Comes.

They were motley crowds of Americans, almost everyone of them Americans born and bred, for there was hardly a foreigner of any nationality to be seen in the hordes of people—those crowds that surged out of and into and through the Union, Baltimore & Ohio, Lake Erie and Wabash stations last night. In the morning they had gone forth from Pittsburgh or come into the city from out-of-town places full of vigor. As they disembarked from the trains last evening and returned from the Pittsburgh parks and other places of entertainment they showed that the Fourth of July had been spent in a way to weary and make tired. Yet all were happy. The station waiting rooms were crowded, as were also the lobbies, while tired sight-seers waiting for the trains to take them to their homes sat out along the approaches to the Union station, or wherever they could find a place to rest. The rules about no loafing allowed had to be dispensed for the day and night.

Union Station Too Small.

The fact that the Union station train shed at the Fort Wayne side was too limited in capacity to handle the trains shows something of the crowds that had to be handled. Those in charge said that they had never known such an inpouring of people, despite the fact that Pittsburgh had little to offer. For the same reason there was a larger than usual outpouring of Pittsburgh's populace. The record at all stations far surpassed any former occasion. Estimates of the Union station crowds alone placed them at from 40,000 to 50,000 people. Special trains were run to all the resorts. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie had two long trains carrying 1,200 persons from Pittsburgh to Ashtabula, whence most of these people went to Woodland Beach. Many of those who went from Pittsburgh on "early evening trains missed the fireworks here and at their home towns, while those who returned to Pittsburgh from out-of-town trips had to satisfy their patriotism with mere glimpses as they passed through the towns along the roads.

Court Reporters in Convention.

Court reporters of the state will gather at the Hotel Henry this morning for a two-day session of business and pleasure. About 15 of the delegates arrived last night. This will be the sixth annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Shorthand Reporters' association. About 30 members are expected to be present. The meetings will be taken up with business sessions, while the two afternoons will be occupied with outing rides and sightseeing about the manufacturing districts. A banquet is scheduled for tomorrow night. One of the features will be a graphophone exhibition by Stanley G. Langdon of this city. Among the important subjects for the sessions are: "Reporting the British Parliament," by George Walpole of London; "Reporting the Canadian Parliament, by Albert Horton of Toronto; "Legislative Reporting in Pennsylvania," by Col. H. C. Demming of Harrisburg; "Criminal Reporting in New York," by F. B. McLaughlin of New York; "Court Reporting in Philadelphia," by W. H. Cliff of that city, and "Congressional Reporting," by Fred Irland of Washington, D. C. Among other speakers will be President Arthur Head of Towanda, Marshall Sloan of Pittsburgh, C. M. Morse of Beaver and Peter Vogel of Somerset.

Christmas Comes After Fourth.

The wholesale houses of all cities are sending their representatives to Pittsburgh, beginning with this week, to interest the local trade in goods of all classes for the Christmas buyers. For a month or from next Monday one floor alone will occupy a large hall in the Monongahela house. The holiday goods, particularly those of the better quality, are said to be of higher grade than in former seasons. The traveling representatives look for a good Christmas trade.

Hotel Lobbies are Deserted.

The hotels were practically deserted last night from 8 to 11 o'clock. The patrons went to witness the displays of fireworks at Schenley park or on Monument hill, Allegheny. Most of the hotels showed well-filled houses for last night, while the registry list for luncheon and dinner was larger than usual, owing to a number of the restaurants being closed.

Supply of Iron Ore.

Prof. N. S. Shaler is one of the most eminent geologists of the world. He announces that in 50 years from now the iron ore known to exist in the country will be so sensibly diminished that the price will be greatly enhanced, and at the end of the century it is possible that the fields will be exhausted for all practical purposes. It is possible new fields will be discovered in this country, but he calls attention to the fact that none of importance has been located in the last 50 years.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

King of Lobsters.

The "king of lobsters" arrived this morning at Commercial wharf from Dennysville, Me. It is the largest ever seen in Boston, and tips the scale at 37½ pounds. Lobstermen place two more pounds to this weight as an allowance for shrinkage as the lobster has been out of the water for two days.—Boston Herald.

Miss Oldgirl—No, for witnesses.—Life.

Of ninety years or more,
And at the thought of dying he
Did wax exceeding sore.

And what did he, the aged man,
To wholly calm his fears?
He penned a will so they could give Him ten or fifteen years!

SUGGEST A NEW APPORTIONMENT

Effort to Get Equitable Distribution of Republican City Committee Seats.

TO ELECT BY DIRECT VOTE

Effort will be made to fix a new basis of representation for membership in the Pittsburgh Republican city committee. The present plan of allowing each ward to name three committeemen, regardless of the size of the Republican vote, is not considered equitable. It is suggested that one committeeman be apportioned for every 500 votes cast for president or a majority fraction thereof, each ward being given at least one member. This would make a committee of 84 instead of 117 as at present.

At this time, when an effort is being made to secure uniform rules in the county and revise the party laws generally so as to allow the Republican voter every opportunity to have a voice in the management, there is much sentiment for a proper distribution of the seats in the city committee. Last fall the Thirty-third ward cast 32 votes for President Roosevelt, yet it has the same voting strength in the city committee as the Twentieth ward with a poll of over 3,200 votes for Roosevelt. Another evidence of the unequal distribution is shown by a comparison of the votes of the 5 East End wards with that of the 15 wards of the South Side. The former, with a poll of 11,252, gets 15 committeemen, while the latter territory gave Roosevelt 8,959 votes and has 45 members on the committee.

Not an Equitable Basis.

The first 10 and the Twelfth and Fifteenth wards polled 5,728 votes for president. These 12 wards have 36 committeemen. The unfairness of this is seen when it is noted the Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth and Twenty-third wards gave Roosevelt 13,039 votes and have but 21 members of the city committee. The 22 wards that cast a little over one-third of the vote have 81 votes in the committee.

There are 117 members of the city committee as it is now constituted, in addition to the 30 committeemen the chairman is permitted to appoint. These appointees have the right to vote. There are many who believe this power should not be exercised, at least when a vote is being taken on a proposition to amend rules. There are some who would remove entirely the power to vote. These questions will be brought up shortly when the revision of the city rules is under consideration. After the county committee has adopted the rules for the government of the party in the county, attention will be given to the revision of the Pittsburgh rules. Former Senator W. A. Magee says he will endeavor to have the question considered long before the city primaries are held in January. Chairman Leslie has not indicated when he would take up the proposition.

Suggested Apportionment.

The table given below shows the vote in each ward for president last fall and the representation on the city committee under the suggested apportionment:

Ward.	Vote.	Sug. Apt.	Ward.	Vote.	Sug. Apt.
1	280	1	21	3,125	6
2	285	1	22	1,053	2
3	118	1	23	1,590	3

20	3,219	6

Elect By Direct Vote.

There are 246 voting districts in the city and if each precinct were to be allowed a committeeman, the committee would probably be too large. If a change is to be made, a fair basis for representation is the vote cast for president. It always represents the party strength of the district. The rate suggested above is considered fair by those who have discussed the proposition. By giving each ward a member, even though its vote was below the ratio, the distribution of seats is made equitable.

At present the city committeemen are elected by the various ward committees. If the scheme of the new county rules is carried out in the city, the members of the committee will be chosen by a direct vote of the Republican electors. County committeemen are elected by a direct vote, and it is believed a greater interest would be taken in the city organization if the same system prevailed. The city committee for this year was chosen in June. If a change is to be made in the basis of representation, the friends of the plan say the September primaries would afford an excellent opportunity for putting it into force.

MEXICAN FLOOD WIPES OUT MANY FAMILIES

Besides the Countless Dead, Several Hundred Persons Are Injured.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MEXICO CITY, July 4.—Besides the dead at Guanajuato, there are several hundred injured persons. In some cases entire families were wiped out. Scores of families lost from one to three members. Many people who lost property are unable to estimate the amount. The government is providing for the sufferers. The entire track of the Guanajuato Reduction Company's line from the city to the Bustos Hacienda was destroyed.

Senor Jesus Chowell, survivor of the Guanajuato flood, who walked overland to Lolores Hildago, gives the following account of the disaster:

"When I left the stricken city on Saturday, 124 bodies had been recovered. The water had practically disappeared, leaving mud, debris and corpses as evidence of its power. The area of the city affected covered about nine square kilometers, within which were situated the state capitol, the Juarez theater, and the chief business houses.

"I can give no estimate of the number of victims, but the property loss amounts to millions. There were two distinct floods, both directly due to the heavy rains above the city. The first cloudburst occurred on Thursday evening, and the second Friday evening. There was no time to remove the ill from the hospital, and all perished."

WOMAN STRUGGLES GUARDING CORPSE

Deputy Coroners and Detectives at Bay Before South Side House.

WIDOW IS HELD BY POLICE

For more than two hours last night Mrs. Michael Kelley stood guard over her house at 805 Brownsville avenue and the corpse of her dead husband against the invasion of two deputy coroners. The officials demanded entrance to the house to inquire into the cause of Michael Kelly's death and continued the seige against the irate woman's protests. Detective Harry Merit was called and finally the aid of the South Side police was invoked. Capt. L. H. Frederick broke the locks of the back door of the house and the tenant yielded. She was arrested and taken to the South Side police station.

Michael Kelly for years suffered from consumption. On Sunday night he died. No physician was in attendance, and the matter was reported to the coroner by the bureau of health. Deputies Frank Rowan and Harry Rowe were ordered by the coroner to investigate. They went to the house at 8 o'clock last night and found Mrs. Kelly sitting alone beside the corpse of her husband. When the deputies rapped on the door Mrs. Kelly threw several strong bolts which secured it, and closed the window shutters. Rowan and Rowe then called Detective Merit.

In the meantime a telephone message was sent to the South Side police station and Capt. Frederick was sent to the scene. He found the besiegers sitting at the door surrounded by a clamoring crowd of neighbors. Capt. Frederick called on Mrs. Kelly to open the door. She refused and the officer broke down the back door.

The frantic woman, it is alleged, rushed for the officers, seizing chairs and any piece of furniture which happened to be in sight. Capt Frederick explained to her that the visit of the coroner was only a matter of formality, but the woman refused to listen and retreated to the door leading to the room where the corpse reposed upon a sheet. Mrs. Kelly continued her struggles until she literally fought over her dead husband's body. She then yielded and was placed under arrest. It was testified by the neighbors that Kelly's death was doubtless due to consumption and that he had long been a sufferer from the disease.

Peacemaker Receives Usual Reward.

A crowd of Slavs were in Beaver avenue, Allegheny, arguing the reason for Independence day and James Alkens, 24 years old, of No. 2057 Gladstone street, attempted to separate the combatants. In the fight he was struck on the head by the butt of a revolver in the hands of one of the foreigners and received a severe wound. He was taken to his home.

PIRATES WIN BOTH GAMES FROM REDS---RUBE WADDELL WINS 20-INNING CONTEST

REDS ARE BEATEN IN BOTH GAMES

Pirates Celebrate the Fourth in Fine Style and Great Crowds Cheer Them to Victory.

HANS WAGNER STEALS HOME

The Pirates' contribution toward a proper celebration of the glorious Fourth was a double victory over the enemy from Cincinnati. The morning game, which was witnessed by a crowd of 9,400 lovers of the game, was captured 8 to 2, and the afternoon contest, which brought out a crowd of 19,105, by a score of 5 to 1. It was a great day for Fred Clarke and his followers and it was likewise a treat for the fans who do not get to see many of the games played during the season.

The crowds that attended the games were the regular holiday affair, everybody out for a good time and they managed to have it. The attendance contained a large number of the female admirers of the game who were just as enthusiastic as their male escorts, and they rooted just as hard for victory for the home team. Of course, the spectators were almost entirely in sympathy with the Pirates, still they were fair enough to appreciate the good work of the visitors, and little Miller Huggins, who covers second base for the Reds, came in for many rounds of applause for his clever fielding feats.

The Cincinnati would hardly be satisfied with the day's sport even if half a dozen games were won if their idol, Hans Wagner, did not pull off some sensational feat, and it must be said that the Carnegie boy seldom fails to deliver the goods. He was there with his feat yesterday afternoon, and when he stole home from third base in the seventh inning in imitation of Honus Wagner's performance in the fourth inning there was a bombardment that nearly tore the roof off the grandstand. It should be remembered that it being the glorious Fourth almost every one in the crowd was armed with a gun of some kind, and they were not a bit stingy with their ammunition.

The morning game passed off slick as a whistle and there was not a word to mar the harmony of the proceedings, but in the afternoon there was trouble enough to suit all hands, and for once Joe Kelley got a dose that he had not bargained for. When the Reds' half of the fifth inning had been reached and with score was 2 to 1 in the Pirates' favor clouds which had been gathering for some time opened up and the rain came down at a pretty lively rate. At that stage the Reds wanted the game called, as they thought to stave off a defeat, but the umpire would not listen to their appeals and forced them to go ahead and finish the inning.

Then followed a delay of almost half an hour, during which the rain came down by the bucket full, and when it let up the playing field resembled a small-sized lake. Manager Clarke argued that it would be impossible to finish the game on a field that was almost ankle deep in mud. But Manager Kelley and his fellow players argued just as strongly the other way, with the result that the umpire, who also paid some attention to the shouts of the crowd to play ball, insisted that the game be finished, and ordered the players to their places, much to the disgust of the Pirates.

The playing field at that time was both soft and slippery, with small pools of water here and there. It was the Pirates' turn at bat, and before they got through they made the Reds wish that the game had been called after the rain, as they piled up five runs in the inning, almost any kind of a grounder counting for a hit, as the players were afraid to take chances on such a slippery field. When it came the time for the Pirates to take the field the water was pretty well soaked in and the fielding was not as hard.

The morning game, which was really the best contest of the two, started out with Flaherty and Overall as its pitchers. The Big Cincinnatian lasted only one inning, during which five runs were scored, when he was lifted and Chech finish the game for that team. Flaherty on the other hand pitched in grand form for the locals and at all stages had the upper hand of his rivals, and he was given faultless support by his fellow players. Chech also pitched good ball in short time, and in the seventh inning, when the Pirates got the hang of his curves and pounded in three runs.

Clymer started off for the Pirates in the opening game by drawing a base on balls and Clarke followed with a neat bunt. Beaumont came out, but Wagner was there with a hit which scored Clymer. Clarke scored on Leach's hit and Wagner moved up to second on the same and scored on a single by Howard. A three-bagger by Leach scored Howard and Leach got home on a single by Ritchey. There was nothing more doing in the run line for the Pirates until the seventh inning, when singles by Clymer and Leach, an error by Barry and a two-bagger by Beaumont netted three more runs.

The Reds got a run in the fourth when Odwell drove the ball to right for two bases and scored on a two-bagger by Seymour. Their other run was obtained in the sixth, when Barry opened the inning with a three-base drive to right and scored on Seymour's fly-out to Clymer. In no other inning were the visitors the least bit dangerous, as Flaherty was pitching the kind of ball that made base hits few and far between.

Manager Kelley reasoned that his big pitcher Overall had not got the right kind of a start in the morning game, and gave him another chance in the afternoon, and the move proved a foolish one, as the big fellow's curves were fast as easy in the afternoon as they were in the morning. In this game Tommy Leach undertook to tell the umpire his business, for which he was lifted out of the game and McBride was given a chance to show himself at third base.

The Pirates lost no time in getting after Overall and scored two runs in the first inning. Clymer led off with a base hit and stole second. Clarke drew a base on balls and Beaumont followed with a hit to left, scoring Clymer. Clarke tried to score on Wagner's grounder, but was run down, Beaumont reaching third and he scored on Howard's infield hit. In the fourth Wagner reached first on an error, went to third on a wild pitch and stole home while the pitcher held the ball.

After the rainstorm, when the umpire forced play, the Pirates batted out a run in the second of four hits, all of them singles, two bases on balls and two errors by Pitcher Overall, who was unable to handle the wet ball. The Reds' lone tally was scored by Seymour in the second inning, when he reached first on a single, was sacrificed to second and scored on a single by Bescher. The score:

FIRST SHOOT A SUCCESS.

East End Gun Club Starts Off on a Promising Career.

The opening tournament of the East End Gun club was a grand success. More than 25 shooters faced the trap and over 5,000 targets were trapped in the regular and practice events. High average for the day was made by L. B. Fleming of the East End Gun club, who broke 135 out of 150 blue rocks.

S. W. Bisling of New Brighton landed first prize in the Merchandise handicap with a score of 44 out of 50 targets. Considering the high wind which prevailed the scores made were excellent.

RUBE WADDELL'S GREATEST WORK

Pitches Athletics to Victory Over Boston in an Exciting 20-Inning Contest.

WAS GREAT PITCHERS' BATTLE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BOSTON, July 4.—All records for lengthy ball games in this city were broken this afternoon when Philadelphia defeated Boston 4 to 2 after 20 exciting innings. The previous professional record in the east, a Boston-Providence game 18 innings, had stood since 1878. A fumble, a hit by pitched ball, a force out and two singles give the visitors two runs and the game in the final inning. Waddell's work was wonderful after the first inning, and four times in the game when it looked like Boston runs his pitching held the home team safely. Score:

ARMSTRONG WINS A PITCHERS' DUEL

Youngstown's Star Gets Decision Over Don Doyle in Hard Battle, 2 to 1.

COLLEGIANS PLAY WELL

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 4.—The Pittsburgh Collegians, with Don Doyle pitching, furnished one of the best games of the season here this morning. Cecil Armstrong, who was on the rubber against Doyle, was returned the winner in a first-class pitcher's duel, 2 to 1. The collegians had two men thrown out at home and two were caught off bases, which cost them the game. Each team secured seven hits, Frank Zoch, the Cornell boy, leading for the collegians.

W. Thomas scored the first run in the second round, getting on first by forcing Maloney at second, Zoch throwing Maloney out to Moffet. McCloskey hit to right, but neither could advance on O'Neill's out at first, as Price made the play too fast. Armstrong lined a single over Moffet's head and Thomas scored. Pfeifer doubled and Zoch singled in the second, but neither scored.

The collegians, however, tied the score in their part of the seventh. Pfeifer singled into middle and he ran around the base on Zoch's scorching double into left. With one out in the eighth, Whitney singled and scored on W. Thomas' triple to middle. Thomas was thrown out at home on fine throws by Uptegraff to Price to Moffet to Pfeifer.

Thounhurst carried off the fielding honors by making a sensational catch in extreme left field of a line drove off Whitney's bat. He caught the ball near the fence while running at top speed with his back to the playing field. The spectators figuratively went wild and compelled him to doff his cap several times. McCracken, in right field, threw out Maloney at first base on a clean hit. The score:

BRADDOCK AND HOMESTEAD SPLIT IN DOUBLE-HEADER

Homestead won the morning game at Homestead yesterday, 3 to 1, and Edgar Thomson Works took the afternoon game at Braddock, 6 to 2. The game at Homestead was attended by about 2,700 people and at the afternoon game there were over 3,500 present. Zellers, for Homestead, pitched the first game and kept the hits well scattered, while Hughes was hit freely. Zellers asked to pitch the second contest and Edgar Thomson touched him up for 10 hits, and this, coupled with three errors by Ryan at third, netted six runs and the game.

Kennoy distinguished himself in both games by some fine catches, which put an end to run-getting, and Sandherr for Braddock made a pretty catch of a hit toward center field. In the ninth inning of the first game Mathay pulled down a ball hit by Bailey that had the earmarks of a home run. The scores:

PHILADELPHIA, July 4.—The annual Peoples regatta over the national course on the Schuylkill river furnished fine sports for rowing enthusiasts who were here in large number from all the middle Atlantic states. The greatest interest was contested in the senior singles, which event was won by Fred Shepheard of the Seawanhaka B. C., Brooklyn, and the senior sights, which race was captured by the Harvard varsity crew rowing under the colors of the Craigie A. A. of Boston. The defeat of C. S. Titus of New York in the senior singles was a surprise.

MENTAL TORTURE OF CONVICTED MAN

Oregon Senator Plainly Shows Suffering When Verdict of Guilty Is Announced.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL MADE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PORTLAND, ORE., July 4.—Amidst a din and clatter of fireworks exploded in honor of the natal day of the country he had served as United States senator during twenty-two years of his life, John H. Mitchell listened to the words pronouncing him guilty of having violated that law which precluded him as a United States senator, from accepting pay for practicing before the department of the federal government.

When the jury had filed from the jury room to their box Judge DeHaven inquired whether the verdict had been agreed upon and foreman Steiner of the jury, replied it had. The verdict was handed to him in a sealed envelope. Judge DeHaven tore open and read the document and passed it to Capt. J. A. Sladen clerk of the court, who read it aloud. When the clerk was reading the verdict the noise outside had so increased that those in the room were able to catch but two phrases: "Guilty" and "leniency of the court."

As the word "guilty" was pronounced, Senator Mitchell seemed as though turned to stone. The nervous stroking of his beard which had continued throughout the proceedings stopped. Not a muscle twitched until Judge Bennett arose and asked that the jury be polled. When he sat down Senator Mitchell leaned toward the attorney and whispered: "It was guilty?"

As the poll proceeded Senator Mitchell scanned each juror narrowly, hoping against hope that a negative would be heard from one of the twelve. As one after the other agreed to the verdict, Mr. Mitchell's lips drew closer and closer in the effort to steel himself against his disappointment. As the last man answered "Yes," Judge Bennett arose and moved the defendant be granted a new trial. Judge DeHaven set the hearing of the motion for next Monday, and then after dismissing the jury adjourned the court. Then, and only then, Senator Mitchell showed plainly the mental torture he was enduring.

It is stated that the jury in the case of Senator Mitchell took six ballots before arriving at a verdict. Five ballots showed eleven jurors for conviction. It is expected that the other indictment pending against the senator, charging conspiracy with Puter and others to defraud the government of public lands will be dropped. What penalty will be imposed by Judge DeHaven can only be conjectured. The statute provides for both imprisonment for not more than 5 years and for a fine to not exceed $10,000. Since the trial began Senator Mitchell has been at liberty upon his recognizance, and this will be continued until after sentence is pronounced at least.

MITCHELL'S LIFE FULL OF ROMANCE

Senator from Oregon Leaves Butler County, Hunted by a Man Seeking Vengeance.

HAS A BROTHER IN ALLEGHENY

United States Senator John H. Mitchell of Oregon, who was found guilty yesterday by a federal jury of complicity in government land frauds, was a Butler county boy. As a barefooted lad he learned to follow the plow and helped do the chores upon the paternal farm. He was Johnnie Hipple then, and Mitchell was his middle name. It was when he had reached manhood and had been driven far away from home because of an unhappy marriage, that Johnnie Hipple became John Hipple Mitchell.

Senator Mitchell was born in Washington county, Pennsylvania, and was the son of John M. Hipple, a well-to-do farmer, who moved with his family to Butler county shortly after John was born. The boy attended the district school and the Butler academy during the winter months, and worked about his father's farm the remainder of the year. He studied law in the office of the late John M. Thompson of Butler, and was admitted to practice at the Butler county bar. About this time he was married to Sara Hoon, cousin of former Sheriff Rainey Hoon, of Butler, and three children were born to the union. As a lawyer he was successful, and when little more than a youth was taken into the firm with John M. Thompson, whose death occurred only a year or two ago.

Brother Relates Senator's Career.

Senator Mitchell's life has been full of struggle and achievement. He is today 70 years of age, but hale and strong as a man of 50. The story of Senator Mitchell's life is best told by his brother, Dr. W. H. Hippie, who lives at 492 California avenue, Allegheny.

"John's life has been a long and honorable one," says Dr. Hipple. "He has served his state and his country faithfully for the greater part of his life, and I hope that soon the suspicion and odium that at present burden his name will be cleared away.

"John is the oldest of our family. He started life as a young attorney in Butler with John M. Thompson and gave promise of winning success and honors in his own home. His marriage to Sara Hoon was unfortunate. At the time he left they had three children and John took the eldest, a daughter, with him to California. The woman's brother, Henry Hoon, who had spent some years in the west as a cowboy, was enraged at John's desertion and swore he would hunt him down and kill him on sight. As a result John feared for his life. That explains why he assumed the name Mitchell.

Court at Once Allowed the Change.

"He was christened John Mitchell Hipple, and through the California courts he had the name changed to John Hipple Mitchell. When he applied to the court he told the story of Henry Hoon's oath of vengeance, and the privilege of taking the new name was immediately granted. Then John moved to Portland, Ore., and opened a law office.

"Through John M. Thompson, his old partner, John sold some property in Butler and made provision for his wife. She was married and divorced several times after John obtained a divorce in the Butler county courts. Shortly after settling in the west, John communicated with the late Dr. W. J. Porter of Freeport. The son and daughter left behind were taken into the family of Dr. Porter, and with money supplied by John, the Porter family bought a home at Mt. Union, O. The two children were raised and educated at Mt. Union college. Regularly each month John Sent east the money for their education, and their living expenses. Both are living today. The boy is practicing law in a western city, and the girl is married to a man in Canton, O. The eldest daughter married a lawyer in the west.

Won Success in Oregon.

"In Oregon John became a man of prominence almost as soon as he took up residence there. That was fully 30 years ago, and John's career has been coincident with the development of the state. He served some years in the state legislature and has represented Oregon in the United States senate for 22 years.

"For many years after John went away from Butler nothing was heard of Henry Hoon. It was known he had gone west, too, but his whereabouts was not known. Then John came back to Butler once to visit the old homestead and on the street he met Henry Hoon. Hoon shook hands with John and apologized for the threats he had made against John's life. In the years intervening between the time John left Butler and the time of this visit, Henry Hoon had learned the truth of the domestic situation. The two became fast friends after that and remained such until Hoon died some years ago. In starting out west to hunt for my brother Hoon stopped somewhere in the state of Iowa and settled there. He was a man of good education and became the principal of the public schools at his place of residence. At the time of his death he was prominent and highly respected.

Daughter Is a Duchess.

"Some time after John secured a divorce from his first wife he married a Parisian woman, whose name I never could remember. She is still living and is the mother of a large family. Her eldest daughter, Mattie, married the duke of Rochefocault, and for some years Mrs. Mitchell has made her home with the duchess in Paris. She cannot live in Oregon because of her health, which has not been good for 10 years.

"Ever since he was a boy John has been considered scrupulously honest. We have corresponded with him always and he has told us something about the trouble that led to his conviction in the land fraud cases. He was in Washington when his partner, Judge Tanner, became interested in land patents. John knew nothing of this business, but each month received from Judge Tanner a check for half the receipts of the law firm of Mitchell & Tanner. In this monthly check was included half the profits accruing from the land patent sales negotiated by Judge Tanner. Then suspicion began to rest on Tanner and he wrote to John in Washington, telling him all about the business that the firm had done in land patents.

Tried to Shield His Partner.

"John naturally wanted to shield his old partner and wrote to Judge Tanner, instructing him to burn certain papers in the office that might be incriminating. This letter fell into the hands of the federal authorities and has proved a damaging bit of evidence of John's supposed guilt. Then, John says, Judge Tanner turned traitor and on the stand swore that my brother was familiar with all the fraudulent transactions that had been carried on. This was a lie, but the grand jury seemed too willing to believe it. Later Judge Tanner repented and declared he had perjured himself in telling of John's alleged connivance with him in the land frauds. In the face of this I do not understand the recent developments in the trial. We have not heard from John for several weeks. In his last letter he told me he was as innocent as any unborn child of any intentional wrongdoing, and I believe him."

Senator Mitchell was in Allegheny and Butler last summer, visiting his relatives and friends there. His brother, Dr. Hipple, is a well-known dentist in Allegheny, with offices in Federal street. J. M. Hipple of Jefferson, Ashtabula county, O., is another brother, as is W. S. Hipple of New Bethlehem, Clarion county. A sister, Mrs. J. J. Stevenson, lives in Butler county.

FEAR CAUSES GIRL TO JUMP FROM HIGH WINDOW

Allegheny Woman Tries to Prevent Visitor Taking Leap and She Falls Out Too.

Because she feared her parents were pursuing her, after she had been forbidden to leave her room, Agnes Marquette, aged 19, jumped out of a second-story window at a house at 1400 Preble avenue, Allegheny, last night and was painfully hurt. Mrs. Mary Sopphok, aged 25 years, with whom the girl was spending the evening, in trying to prevent her companion from jumping, fell out of the window. Mrs. Sopphok's back is seriously injured. Both women were taken to St. John's General hospital.

The Marquette girl lives with her parents in one of the apartments in the Preble avenue house. She was told to stay in her room last evening and disobeyed. Her friend, Mrs. Sopphok, had locked the door and the two were together when Mr. Sopphok returned home unexpectedly.

He found the door locked and began knocking. Agnes thought her father was outside and she immediately started toward an open window and jumped. Her companion, divining her intention, tried to stop the girl, and in the excitement fell out the same window, alighting on her back. The Marquette girl landed on her feet and had her ankle broken.

Balloon Sets Fire to Roof.

A lighted balloon fell on the roof of the house at 3206 Carson street, occupied by Jacob Orth. The shingles took fire and an alarm was turned in. The blaze was extinguished with a loss of $10.

MISSING EDUCATOR IS BOUND FOR PARAGUAY

Uniontown Authorities Try to Head Off Dr. Brooks, Charged With Embezzlement.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

UNIONTOWN, PA., July 4.—It has been learned that Dr. H. F. Brooks, the missing principal of the Uniontown schools, who is wanted on charges of embezzlement and larceny in connection with the alleged misappropriation of tuition fees, sailed from New York June 17 as a steerage passenger on the Carpathia, bound for Paraguay, South America, via Liverpool. District Attorney Hudson has cabled the American consul at London and also has requested Gov. Pennypacker to ask the state department at Washington that Dr. Brooks be arrested on the arrival of the steamer at Queenstown, which is expected to be Wednesday, July 4.

Sheriff M. A. Klafer and County Detective McBeth returned this morning from Washington and New York where they secured the arrest of Dr. Brooks' sailing. Believing that Miss Bess Montgomery, a former Pittsburgh woman, whom they located at 122 D. street, Washington, D. C., knew of Brooks' whereabouts, they questioned her, but she refused to give any information until placed under arrest and sweated, when she turned over to the officials a letter alleged to have been written by Brooks from the Transatlantic hotel in New York, telling of his trouble and asking her to come on to New York and sail with him for Paraguay.

At the Transatlantic hotel the officers learned Brooks had been drinking heavily. They report that he sailed on steerage ticket No. 5909 under the name of H. B. Telfer, but that in New York he changed his real name of Henry Felgar Brooks to Harold B. Felgar.

Dr. Brooks is 40 years old and can be easily identified. He was formerly superintendent of the Uniontown schools for a three-year term, but had one year yet to serve. The amount he is charged with misappropriating is said to be about $7,000.

CHAUTAUQUA

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 4.—(Special.)—The Fourth at Chautauqua was typical of the institution. Just enough noise to emphasize the fact that the small boy was enjoying the day in the usual way and a display of fireworks in the evening preserved the traditions of the day. Brief patriotic exercises in the afternoon were held, at which Dr. J. M. Thoburn, Jr., of Allegheny, read from the Declaration of Independence and Dr. W. H. Hickman read the president's proclamation on the death of Secretary Hay.

The address of the morning, especially fitting for the day, was "George Washington and Our Foreign Policy" by Arthur E. Bestor, who said in part:

"It is true there were many others associated with George Washington in bringing about the independence of the United States, but he was the greatest. As he was the first president of the United States, he had more to do than any of his predecessors in giving shape and point to foreign policies."

Mr. Bestor mentioned briefly the conditions which made necessary the formation of the department of foreign affairs and the other departments of the president's cabinet, and compared the English cabinet, in which the king is wholly irresponsible, to the American cabinet, in which the president is responsible. Continuing, Mr. Bestor said:

"The secretary of state is always the most important man in the cabinet. Six have become president of the United States during 125 years of our history. It devolved upon George Washington to set in operation the new government, and history has shown he well proved himself capable. Washington stood in foreign policy as elsewhere as a great statesman. He believed in united country, in indissoluble union and neutrality in regard to foreign nations. He was the greatest American of early history."

SMALL FIRES ON FOURTH.

Lightning Strikes Bank—Fireworks Explodes in Store—Children Start Blaze.

Lightning during the storm yesterday afternoon struck a wire running into Jacob Klein's Polish bank, at 1940 Penn avenue, destroyed a chandelier and caused a small blaze. No. 15 engine company responded to a still alarm.

Fireworks in the window of the store of Joseph Laduch, at 2524 Penn avenue, exploded last night and brought out company No. 15 on a still alarm. The explosion was caused by a gas jet, and the glass in the window and door were blown out. The loss is $25.

Children threw firecrackers into the cellar of Anthony Hass' fruit store, in Frankstown avenue, and caused a small blaze which brought out the firemen by an alarm from box 813.

A fire in an outside frame kitchen, in the rear of 4918 Penn avenue, occupied by Mrs Y. Garland, caused an alarm from box 574 yesterday afternoon. The loss is not over $25.

FUN AT WORKHOUSE.

Prisoners at Claremont Were Allowed to Celebrate the Fourth of July.

There was no lack of patriotism at the Allegheny county workhouse yesterday. Supt. A. H. Losbo allowed the inmates of the big Claremont institution to celebrate the Fourth of July, special programs being arranged for the morning and afternoon.

In the morning the prisoners were addressed by former Judge John M. Greer of Butler, and the Rev. Thomas Walters of the First Reformed Presbyterian church of the East End. The music was furnished by the minister. In the afternoon every one was turned into the big yard and all the liberty possible was given. The program included a foot ball game, dancing, singing and a scramble for peanuts.

DROWNS WHILE BATHING.

Harold Robinson Sinks Before Companions in Monongahela River at Homestead.

Harold Robinson, aged 21, of 411 Boundary street, Wilkinsburg, was drowned yesterday in the Monongahela river at Homestead, while bathing. He was a carpenter and was swimming with some friends. His body was not recovered.

The coroner is investigating the death of a 10-months-old infant, who died yesterday morning at the home of William Walker at West Liberty. The parents are not known.

John Connelly, aged 58, of 615 Park avenue, East End, yesterday was found dead in his room. Heart failure is supposed to have caused death.

WOMEN ATTACKED BY HIGHWAYMEN

SHARON, PA., July 4.—(Special.)—Two unknown men last night attacked Mrs. C. Gilmore, of this city, and her guest, Mrs. M. Culbert of New York, in East State street. Mrs. Culbert was dragged into a yard and threatened with death if she made an outcry. Her sister screamed and Policemen Lansdown and Barbish went to their rescue. The men fled, taking Mrs. Culbert's brooch.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. If it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the Pittsburgh Daily Gazette. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

ANTLERED HERD OFF FOR BUFFALO

Allegheny County Elks to Make Great Showing at National Convention.

BUFFALO CLUB IS FORMED

Never in the history of Elkdom in Allegheny county has so much enthusiasm been displayed by the large antlered herd in these confines, as there is over the coming annual grand lodge meeting and convention to be held at Buffalo next week. Allegheny county Elks in large numbers will attend and great preparations by the Buffalo Elks have been made for the entertainment of 60,000 Elks and their friends from all over the country. This convention promises to be the most largely attended and important of any yet held by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, now representing over 250,000 members.

Through the untiring efforts of James E. O'Donnell, past exalted ruler of Pittsburgh lodge No. 11, and president of the "Buffalo" club and marshal of the Allegheny county brigade, and H. F. Luebbe, secretary of the "Buffalo" club, the Allegheny county Elks, with their wives and friends will be entertained on a scale never yet attempted, and they wish to announce that all Pittsburgh Elks not members of the "Buffalo" club, with their wives and friends, are cordially invited to join the club and accompany it on its special train, leaving next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock over the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad.

Special Pullman Train.

The Pittsburgh delegation will have special Pullman cars and a solid vestibule train, and those accompanying it will travel in true Elkdom style. On board the cars will be all the refreshments necessary for the comfort of the travelers and the trip promises to be a merry one from the time the train pulls out of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie station until its return.

The preparations absolutely forbid anything but joviality, and woe to the Elk who dares to violate the traditional injunction of the tintype man, and dares to do anything but "look pleasant."

Pittsburgh has only one candidate for grand lodge office this year, and it is believed that his election is assured. This candidate is Prof. W. W. McClelland, P. E. R. No. 11, P. D. D. G. E. R., who is now grand tyler and who hopes to be elected grand esteemed lecturing knight. He is a popular member of No. 11 and has the support of all the lodges in Western Pennsylvania for this office.

The movement to have the 11 lodges of the county attend in uniform and march as one brigade, has been received with enthusiasm and 150 members of Pittsburgh lodge alone, accompanied by Prof. Dannhardt's famous band of 40 pieces, will march in line. So far no effort nor expense has been spared by the Pittsburgh lodge to make both an imposing array at the grand council of the order, and to insure every comfort and pleasure which heart could desire, both for the herd and their lady guests.

Judge McKenna Going.

The Hon. Charles F. McKenna, judge of the United States district court of Porto Rico, who returned to the city a few days ago to remain for the summer, will attend the coming meeting of the Elks at Buffalo as the representative of the Porto Rican lodge, of which he is exalted ruler. This lodge, No. 976, was instituted some months ago by Judge McKenna, who is a member of Pittsburgh lodge No. 11. Judge McKenna was made chief officer of the new lodge and chosen to represent it at the coming convention, and the Pittsburgh lodge has secured room for him at the Mansion house, the same hotel in which members of the Pittsburgh Elks will be located. He will go to Buffalo with his old lodge.

W. H. Hall, P. E. R. of No. 11, and a delegate to the national convention, will also attend with his lodge as well as District Deputy Charles W. Ashley of the Homestead lodge. The Mansion house and Hotel Arlington have been engaged for the Pittsburgh contingent.

KATE TAKES WATER CURE IN THE POLICE STATION

Kate Gormley was given the water cure at the Oakland police station yesterday afternoon. She was arrested for being disorderly on Bates street, and when put in a cell used the vilest language. It took three men to hold the woman while the money she held in her hand was taken from her. For an hour she continued her tirade, and then water was thrown at the woman through the cell door. Her arrest is said to be the fourth for her this year.

Great Honors Paid Americans.

PARIS, July 4.—President Loubet received Ambassador McCormick, senior special Ambassador Porter, junior special Ambassador Loomis, Rear Admiral Sigsbee and other officers of the American squadron at 5 o'clock this evening. The American party was escorted from the American embassy with military honors. Mr. McCormick presented the party to M. Loubet, who greeted the visitors most cordially.

Citizens Punish Orphan Reitz.

Because William C. Reitz, a former councilman and a leader of the Orphans party, does not affiliate with the Citizens organization, the Citizens party leaders have had him disciplined by ordering the discharge of his brother-in-law, Frederick Dierst, who has been janitor of the Thirty-fifth ward schools for nine years.

Philadelphia Had Tragedies.

PHILADELPHIA, July 4.—Four persons dead, two probably fatally injured and more than two hundred others wounded is the result of the independence day celebration in this city.

ADVERTISING MEN FORM BIG COMPANY

Shaw-Shaw and Solar Engraving Unite as Shaw-Cassidy Co., Inc.

Following the consolidation of the D. Minard Shaw Agency, successor to the Shaw-Shaw Advertising Agency, and the Solar Engraving Company, articles of incorporation have been issued to the Shaw-Cassidy Company, Inc., under which title the new concern will transact business. The officers of the Shaw-Cassidy Company are: D. Minard Shaw, president; James P. Cassidy, vice president, and William J. Hatton, secretary and treasurer. The capital is $25,000. For the present the offices of Shaw-Shaw in the Farmers Bank building will be used by the new concern, while larger quarters are being sought. The engraving plant will continue in the Imperial Power building, until facilities are to be still further increased. The consolidation of these two companies is additional evidence of the enterprise and progressiveness which has marked the business career of the officers of the new concern. Though it was less than two years ago that the advertising firm from which the present concern has been developed was started, from the first it took its place as an important factor in its field, and now numbers among its patrons some of the most extensive advertisers in the country. The Shaw-Cassidy Company is singularly fortunate in the talent of its art department, which is under the direction of Tom Chantler, the well-known artist. The art and engraving departments will work in close harmony, greatly facilitating not only promptness but excellence of execution in those very important features of modern advertising, illustration and design.

CONTRACTS COME TO PITTSBURGH

The Westinghouse Interests Get Orders Which Represent an Expenditure of $3,000,000.

BOTH FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, July 4.

The Westinghouse interests have secured another batch of interesting European and far eastern contracts for the equipment of electric railways and lighting plants, and have also closed within the last day or two important contracts for big Indiana and Ohio electric traction and lighting systems. These contracts will represent an expenditure of fully $3,000,000.

The Westinghouse agents at Paris, which represents the Westinghouse interests in France, Spain, Switzerland, Italy and other countries on the continent of Europe, have been awarded a contract for the installation of the Westinghouse single phase railway system on the Bergamo-Valle Brembana railway, Italy. The length of the road will be 20 miles. It will be served by five 30-ton locomotives equipped with four single-phase motors of 75-horsepower capacity each, with multiple unit control and pneumatically-operated bow trolleys. The gauge of the track will be four and one-half feet.

This is the second single-phase railway contract secured by the Westinghouse people in Italy, the first being the Rome-Civita-Castellana railway. The value of the Bergamo-Valle Brembana contract is about $1,500,000.

Through the New York offices of the Japanese engineering and contracting firm of Takata & Company the Westinghouse representatives in the Hokkado's empire) a contract has been closed for the installation of a big hydro-electric plant at Kanagawa to be operated by the Kanagawa Electric Light Company.

The two large domestic contracts referred to are those obtained from the Fort Wayne & Wabash Valley Traction Company of Fort Wayne, Indiana, and the Cincinnati (Ohio) Northern Traction Company.

The Fort Wayne contract calls for the entire electrical equipment, comprising both three-phase and two-phase apparatus, the former for the railway and the latter for lighting service. The machinery will be capable of developing 10,000 horsepower. Steam turbines will be installed. The electrical apparatus will be built by the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, while the turbines will be turned out at the Westinghouse Machine Company's shops at East Pittsburgh.

The Cincinnati Northern Traction Company's contract calls for the equipment of the main generating station and four rotary converter substations. The power house will be located at Hamilton, O. The original installation will be of 5,000-kilowatts capacity, with provisions for eventually increasing it to 10,000-kilowatts.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS WERE NOT MUCH CHANGED

English Consols Slightly Lower, French Rentes Higher, and American Securities Irregular. Cotton Boomed in Liverpool.

The only interest in financial circles yesterday centered in the foreign stock markets. The latter were irregular, and presented no striking features. In London English consols were slightly lower, while in Paris French rentes advanced. The latter were doubtless affected by the news from Odessa, reporting a semblance of order and partial resumption of business.

In the London market for American securities there was considerable irregularity. The greatest advance in Wall street on Monday occurred after the close of the foreign markets, with Erie and the Reading issues the chief features among the railroads and United States Steel in the industrial list. In London yesterday the Erie issues declined, while Reading common closed 1 per cent higher, Reading first preferred closed unchanged, but the second preferred lost 1¼ per cent for the day. The largest advance was in New York Central, which closed 2 per cent higher. St. Paul closed ¾ per cent higher. The United States Steel stocks, which were largely bought for London account on Monday, continued strong, the common closing ⅝ and the preferred 1¼ per cent higher for the day.

The Liverpool cotton market responded to the great advance in the New York market on Monday and closed 51 points higher for the day. Grain markets were quiet and prices nominal.

The following shows the closing prices in London yesterday compared with the day before:

Foreign Money Market.

LONDON, July 4.—Money was abundant in the market today despite the consols settlement. Discounts were easy though Paris had taken all the procurable gold in the open market. Prices on the stock exchange were quietly firm on the cheap money. Business though largely professional was helped by the better understanding regarding Morocco. The market closed quiet. Consols hardened at first and reacted later. Americans were cheerful and inactive owing to the holiday, though frequently a fraction over parity. The tone was cautious and the market closed quietly steady. Grand Trunk was supported on the harvest outlook. Foreigners were rather buoyant. Russians recovered on the reported reconstruction of order at Odessa. Japanese were firm. Japanese imperial 4s of 1904 were quoted at 100. Consols for money, 90 3-16; consols for account, 90⅜. Bar silver, 27 1-16d per ounce. Money, 1 per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1 11-16@1 13-16 per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 1⅝@1 3-16 per cent.

PARIS, July 4.—Prices on the bourse today were firm throughout on reports of a satisfactory conclusion of the Franco-German negotiations, the improvement in the internal situation in Russia also exercising a favorable influence. Russian bonds of 1894 at $500.05. Three per cent rentes 96f 30c for the account. Exchange on London, 25f 16c for checks.

BERLIN, July 4.—Prices on the bourse today were strong and trading was active. Russian imperial 4s were half a point higher on the prospect of peace in the far east. Exchange on London, 20 marks 47½ pfgs. for checks. Discount rates, short bills, 5 per cent, three months' bills, 2 per cent.

The Wool Market.

LONDON, July 4.—The fourth series of the 1905 wool auction sales opened today with a very large attendance. Competition was spirited. There was a good selection and the demand was active from all sections. Practically all the wool offered was sold. Merinos and fine crossbreds were 5 per cent, mediums 5 to 7½ per cent, and coarse grades 15 per cent higher. Cape of Good Hope and Natals were unchanged. The sales in detail were as follows: New South Wales, 600 bales; scoured, 16d@1s 10½d; greasy, 7d@1s 4d. Queensland, 1,400 bales; scoured, 1s 1d@1s 8½d; greasy, 6½d@1s 1½d. Victoria, 600 bales; scoured, 1s 8d@1s 7½d; greasy, 6½d@1s 4½d. South Australia, 100 bales; greasy, 6½d@1s 2½d. West Australia, 600 bales; greasy, 7½@11d. New Zealand, 5,700 bales; scoured, 8d@1s 8½d; greasy, 7d@1s 3d. Cape of Good Hope and Natal, 300 bales; scoured, 1s 6d@1s 11½d; greasy, 7d@1s 4d. Falkland Islands, 800 bales; greasy, 9¾@11½d. River Plate, 200 bales; scoured, 8½d@1s 3d.

Raid an Allegheny House.

The house of Ollie Edwards at No. 59 West Robinson street, Allegheny, was raided yesterday morning and Mrs. Edwards, five girls and seven men were arrested. The proprietress paid $25 and costs and the girls $5 and costs each. The visitors were discharged.

FOREIGN MARKET IS ALSO EXCITED

Advance of Cotton in Liverpool Exceeds Even the Sensational Rise in New Orleans.

Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, July 4.

The sensational rise in cotton in the New York and New Orleans market yesterday brought about a wild Liverpool market according to advices from abroad this morning. A great deal of interest was aroused in cotton circles over the question as to how foreign operators would regard the government report of 17 and the rise of a cent a pound in New York. In order to meet the American advance it was necessary for Liverpool prices to rise 47 points. The foreign market opened 53 points higher, and at 2 o'clock was 56 points higher than yesterday. The rise, therefore, exceeded the advance here by about 20 American points, and in the event of this rise being maintained until tomorrow, cotton in New York would be selling at 10¾ cents as against 10½ at the close last night.

The rise in Liverpool today is beyond precedent and is the more remarkable for the reason that foreign spinners have taken enormous quantities of cotton at the low figures of the winter. Exports of cotton from this country so far this season have exceeded all previous records and amount to more than 8,000,000 bales, or about 2,250,000 bales more than the exports of last season.

Owing to the large supplies abroad, many cotton men were not inclined to look for as sensational a rise in Liverpool as that shown this morning. The foreign situation is normally a balance wheel in extremes of speculative enthusiasm in this country, but from the advices received today, the foreign apprehension is fully as acute as that existing in this country.

This apprehension is explained by the enormous business being done in Manchester. For months reports of trade conditions in Lancashire and Manchester show a genuine boom in progress, with business better than for 20 or 20 years. As a result of the bull speculation in cotton during the past few years, prices advanced to a point where great distress in cotton manufacturing districts in Great Britain resulted from the efforts to run machinery on high-priced raw material.

Last winter, for the first time since 1898, cotton could be obtained in large quantities at moderate prices, and consumption increased rapidly. For this reason 10 cents or 12 cents for cotton is not regarded as an excessive price in foreign trade circles.

Later dispatches from Liverpool said prices had advanced still further to 58 points above last night's close.

SOCIETY

MRS. HENRY M. CURRY entertained a house party of young girls and men over the Fourth at her new summer home at Magnolia, Mass. Among the Pittsburgh girls who were members of the house party were Miss Elizabeth Heron, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown Heron of South Negley avenue, and Miss Caroline Hays, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hays' daughter, who left on Sunday evening for the east. Mrs. Curry's new home, which is just completed, is one of the finest private houses at Magnolia, and is on the shore road not far from the famous Normans Woe rocks. The house is very elaborate and is English in style, with stone for the first floor and plaster and half timber above. The veranda and porte cochere columns and the chimneys are all of them rock, while the roofs are of green tile, the whole harmonizing admirably with the landscape of scrub oaks and rocks jutting from the stony soil upon which grew wild bushes, the wild strawberry and other plants and shrubs which demand little depth of earth. The interior of Mrs. Curry's summer home is of generous dimensions. There is an entrance hall from which the circular staircase of black oak, with richly carved balustrade, winds to the floors above. The living room is 60 feet long and finished in dark oak, with beamed ceiling. The windows are arranged in series and in bays and a delightful feature of the apartment is the fireplace nook with its carved seats, where the fire crackles on the damp, chilly nights which frequently come on the New England shore. The living room opens into a den, which is circular, and contains a quaint Dutch fireplace. The dining-room is entered from the living room and is finished in mahogany. There is also a small reception room done in white wood, with delicate wall decorations, which is at the right of the entrance hall. The second and third floors are given up to sleeping rooms, arranged singly and in suites, each with its bath. The decorations and colors employed in furnishing these floors were chosen with a view to producing light and airy effects, yet the house is home-like in every respect.

Spend Day Picnicking.

There was a large number of picnics and family dinners in the Sewickley valley yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Lord of Edgeworth served a porch supper last evening, bridge whist following. Mr. and Mrs. George E. Terry entertained about 20 friends with dinner in the country near Sewickley. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker gave a family dinner at their home in Sewickley. Sixty young people were entertained at Watercourse park, the hostesses being the Misses Grace Jackson, Ethel Ritchey, Margaret Ritchey, Margaret Kunkle, Virginia McDonald, Jennie Reid and Katherine Linn.

Many picnics had been arranged for today in the Waterworks park and other places near Sewickley. Among those who took part in family reunions were Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Van Cleve, Mr. and Mrs. David Ormsbee, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Stolenbach, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Duffy, Mr. and Mrs. John Gaston and Mr. and Mrs. John Cunningham.

House Party at Lakewood.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Sorg of New York entertained a house party over the Fourth at the Ault cottage in Lakewood. The party went from Pittsburgh on Saturday and will remain several days. It included Miss Margaret Chalfont, Miss Florence Strubber of Erie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. M. Roy Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Martin, Howard Hamilton, Robert Hamilton and Charles Ault. Mr. and Mrs. Sorg have closed their home in New York and gone to Lakewood for the summer. Mrs. Ault's father, Maj. William F. Ault, is with them, and they will be joined in a few days by Mrs. Ault, who will remain throughout the summer. Mrs. Ault is now at the home of her son, John A. Ault, in Pittsfield avenue, during the absence of Mrs. John J. Ault in Cleveland, where she has been visiting for the last month.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Thaw are entertaining a house party this week at their summer home, Eden Hill, Stockbridge, Mass. The party, which includes about 30 people, is composed largely of eastern friends of Mr. and Mrs. Thaw, who for this season are occupying one of the most picturesque and historic estates in the Berkshire region. Their estate comprises 225 acres of land, upon which stands a fine old mansion. There is also the mansion house built in 1815, where Jonathan Edwards and other early preachers in New England preached to the Indians in the pioneer days. This mansion house this summer is being occupied by Mrs. Thaw's sister, Mrs. William McClintock of Philadelphia.

King-Campbell.

A pretty home wedding of Monday evening, which took place at the home of the bride in Forty-second street, was that of Miss Cora Belle King to Robert Carmichael of Oakland. The bride's only attendant was Miss Emma Louise Braun, and a brother of the groom, Frank Campbell, served as best man. The bride was gowned in white and carried bride's roses, and her maid of honor wore white and carried an armful of white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left on their wedding trip later, to return the latter part of this month.

Barnes-Conley.

Miss May Barnes of Irwin and Charles J. Conley of Jeannette were married at noon yesterday at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed in the presence of 100 guests by the Rev. J. A. Eby of the First Presbyterian church. The bride was attended by Miss Laura Kunkle of Greensburg, and the best man was William McQuaide of Jeannette. After a wedding dinner the couple left on an eastern bridal tour.

Going to Y. M. C. A. Camp.

On Thursday the following members of the junior department of the Sewickley Y. M. C. A. will leave for a two weeks' outing on Lake Erie: Ferris McKeown, Frank Hegner, Ben Handy, Ralph Tallant, William Allewelt, Raymond Nevin, Carl Agne, Frank White, Albert Van Horn and David Russell. They will be accompanied by the Rev. H. B. Hankin, Wesley Hill, H. C. Bartholomew and Ernest F. Sopp.

Will Wed Today.

The marriage of Miss Eva Grier Patterson, daughter of Mrs. Margaret M. Patterson of South Negley avenue, East End, and Frank Milton Hunter, will be solemnized this evening at 6 o'clock. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's mother, the Rev. Dr. J. S. Irons of Oakmont being the officiating clergyman. There will be no attendants.

Social Notes.

Miss Marion Gaston entertained the Euchre club, of which she is a member, at her home, Beechwood Ranch, near Sewickley, yesterday afternoon and evening.

Women Beaters Are Fined.

James Clay was fined $50 and costs yesterday morning for hitting a woman in a house on Tunnel street, and Thomas Fitzgerald paid a like sum on complaint of his wife, who said he beat her at their home on Webster avenue.

Among the Clubs.

Playgrounds Open Today.

Nine supervised playgrounds will be opened this morning at 9 o'clock in Allegheny, when nearly 4,000 children will be enrolled for the short summer term of the playgrounds and vacation schools. The plans for the opening have been carefully made and this season this work of philanthropy begins a new era on the North Side, with more school grounds open to the children and more general work arranged for their recreation and instruction during the summer weeks. The playgrounds and vacation schools will be conducted in the Sherman Avenue, Second ward, school; the Irwin avenue, Second ward, school; the Chestnut street, the Third ward, Fifth ward, Spring Garden school, Seventh ward, Eighth ward, Ninth ward, East street, Tenth ward and the Thirteenth ward schools. Some will all include playgrounds and vacation schools, but in the vacation schools the same plan will not be followed as all since the summer work will not be on the same lines as carried out during the school year, those schools which have sewing in the winter not being given sewing in the summer vacation school. The special features, however, will include basketry in all the schools, millinery in the Irwin avenue school, cooking in the Chestnut street school and the Fifth ward school, kindergarten in the Third ward school, sewing in the Spring Garden school, the Eighth ward school, the East street and the Thirteenth ward schools, art and nature work in the Irwin avenue school, the Fifth ward, the Ninth ward and the Thirteenth ward schools.

Institute for Pittsburgh Teachers.

While the Allegheny summer playgrounds open today, the teachers who have been engaged for the Pittsburgh summer playgrounds and vacation schools will assemble for their four days of instruction preceding the opening of the Pittsburgh playgrounds next Monday. The teachers' institute will be conducted by the South school, Diamond and Ross streets, opposite the city hall, and the industrial teachers will meet department supervisors and the work for the coming five weeks will be gone over in two daily sessions, closing on Saturday afternoon. The teachers and workers are expected to attend these sessions, and all others interested in the playground work are invited to be present. The following sessions will be held: Playgrounds, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 9 a. m.; art, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 9 a. m.; nature study, Wednesday and Thursday, 2 p. m.; manual training, Friday and Saturday, 10 a. m.; physical training, Thursday, 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.; sewing, Wednesday, 9 a. m. and 2 p. m.; basketry, Thursday and Friday, 9 a. m.; cooking, Thursday, 2 p. m.; games and drills, Wednesday, 10 a. m.; Thursday, 11 a. m., and Saturday, 10:30 a. m.; music, Wednesday, 1:30 p. m., and Thursday, 2:30 p. m.; head teachers, Thursday, 3 p. m., and Saturday, 11 a. m.; general meetings, Friday, 11 a. m., and Saturday, 2 p. m.

The Sunshine Auxiliaries.

Through the thoughtfulness of kind-hearted women yesterday, with all its ills, was made endurable to hundreds of the sick and suffering in Pittsburgh. The Sunshine Auxiliary of the West Penn hospital provided a couple of hand concerts by the Highland Park band, together with flowers for the patients and little gift flags for souvenirs, while ice cream was provided for all the convalescents and those who could take it. At some of the other hospitals efforts were made to brighten the holiday for the suffering, and letters and thoughtful remembrances were sent many of those who are not in the city by the members of the Pittsburgh branch of the International Sunshine society, of which Mrs. Frank O. Van Gorder is president. The day was a quiet one at the Children's hospital, so far as entertainment was provided for the little people, but at the orphans' homes the day's program was not completed without the ice cream, which is always served on holidays. At the homes for the aged music was supplied by some of the members of the Sunshine auxiliaries, while baskets filled with good things found their way to some of the homes which are known to those kind-hearted persons. In many other ways not generally known to the public there were attempts made throughout the city to add a little brightness to the lives of those who are alone in the world or confined to their homes by sickness, accident or adverse circumstances.

Woman's Club's Plans.

Plans are completed for the work of the Woman's club of Sewickley for the coming season. Mrs. Harding will conduct the current event afternoons and Miss Jean Craig of the East End will have charge of the literature classes. The language classes will be instructed by Herr S. Calvelt and Mademoiselle Bury. The officers are: President, Mrs. R. B. M. Hooker; vice president, Mrs. DeWitt B. Nesbitt; secretary, Miss Elizabeth Anderson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. M. Tate, Jr., and treasurer, Mrs. Robert T. Cunningham.

Youngsters in Fresh Air.

The first detachment of children to be taken to the Sewickley Fresh Air home this season arrived yesterday. There were 40 in the crowd from Trinity parish kindergarten, Mrs. Halsey Williams and Miss George B. Clapp were in charge of them. They will stay at the home for two weeks, when another 40 furnished by the First Presbyterian church will be sent from Pittsburgh.

MONESSEN IS WIDE OPEN.

Granting of Licenses to Gambling Fakirs Causes Local Men to Retaliate Against Mayor.

MONESSEN, July 4.—(Special.)—Monessen was wide open today, fakirs lining either side of Donner avenue for half a mile, reaping a harvest from the residents and the 10,000 visitors. Mayor A. H. Shuster granted licenses to all games of chance except paddle wheels. Early in the day local men asked for a permit to operate a wheel and were refused. Incensed at the mayor's refusal, warrants were put in the hands of Constable D. W. G. Cooper for the arrest of all the fakirs, and about a dozen were captured. They were taken to McMahan borough for a hearing.

The bout here between Charlevoi and Monessen resulted in favor of the former, but for some reason the $1,000 prize was not given to the winner. This created bitterness among the Charlevoi visitors.

An Interesting Talk Promised.

Hugh O'Donnell, deputy state factory inspector, will address the Ministerial union at its meeting next Monday, at which time he will tell something about conditions existing in the Pittsburgh district. He will tell about the social conditions that exist on "The Hill" and in other ways interest those engaged in bettering the conditions of the laboring classes. This address will not be a repetition of the one delivered to the Methodist preachers' meeting. Mrs. Harper, a tenement inspector, will also contribute something of interest.

Suffers a Lapse of Memory.

William Kacow, charged with driving off with a wagon of the Pittsburgh Railways Company while the repairmen were at work on Smithfield street, declared he did not remember anything about it and was discharged by Magistrate Mohr yesterday morning.

SUGGESTION FOR QUIET ACTED ON

Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroads Want Less Noise at Terminals.

PANHANDLE VETERAN IS DEAD

Action in line with the suggestion made through The Gazette recently by a Pennsylvania operating officer, for more quiet, particularly at the smaller terminal points of the railroads, has been taken by at least one official. Supt. O. H. Hobbs of the Baltimore & Ohio at Connellsville has just issued a general notice which reads as follows:

"There is entirely too much loud and unnecessary whistling in the borough limits of Connellsville. Commencing at once, enginemen will discontinue all unnecessary whistling."

It is reported that similar action has been taken in a less formal and direct way by officials of the Pennsylvania at Altoona and Harrisburg, the latter place, by the way, being said to be the noisiest terminal station at night in the east. There is much room for improvement along the line of the suggestion, for not only less whistling from the locomotives, but also for less bell ringing, less yelling and less talking on the part of the trainmen and terminal employes, and less rumbling of the trucks. The rules governing whistling and bell ringing for the terminals were designed particularly for day work; but as no provision was made for late night work, different from the day performance, it has been taken for granted that the day rules are to apply with just as strict force. As an officer said yesterday: "Common sense should be the guiding rule."

"For some time there has been a quiet rule enforced at the Baltimore & Ohio station in this city, and the brakeman who happens to forget himself and yells out: "All aboard," gets a call himself for the offense.

Like Honors, but Want Fairness.

"Yes, we all like to have the honors attached to hauling special trains, such as the special that will carry President Roosevelt and his cabinet to the Hay funeral over the Pennsylvania system," said one of the Pennsylvania railroad's veteran conductors yesterday, "but the old rule of the officials selecting the crew to operate on such trains has given way to a better one; one that gives a square deal to everyone of us, enginemen, firemen, brakemen or conductors. The regular men, of course, operate their regular trains unless something comes in to break this up. Now, there is an extra list of some of the best road men in the service, and to the man in each class who happens to be first on the list goes the responsibility, privilege and honor of handling the president's specials. The Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad used to have a reputation among presidents and members of their cabinets, as well as among the directors and higher officials of the road itself in their traveling over the road in special trains, of having the finest lot of operating men in the country. That was when the big and handsome fellows got the honor trips. The Pennsylvania system's conductors and other road men are not a bad looking bunch now, and I don't think the reputation has been injured greatly. The men all like the new way better. Yes, I used to get some of the honors myself," concluded the veteran as he justly "cheated" himself and smiled at some of his associates in the conductors' room at Union station.

Make Strong Denials.

A report published in Pittsburgh yesterday to the effect that Col. J. M. Schoonmaker, vice president and general manager of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, and his Vanderbilt system associates had entered into a tentative agreement to purchase the Little Kanawha syndicate railroad and coal properties owned by George J. Gould, Joseph Ramsey, Jr., J. T. Blair, J. W. Patterson, A. M. Neeper and others, was denied absolutely by Messrs. Patterson and Neeper last evening. It was said:

"Neither the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, or Vanderbilt interests, nor any community-of-interest railroad people have secured a tentative agreement for the properties, nor have any interests purchased them. The road will be built."

Attorney Neeper knew nothing of such proceedings, and denied a story published to the effect that he was to leave the general counselship of the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal railway. "Absolutely no truth in it," said he. "I do not intend leaving the company."

Veteran Panhandle Man Dies.

Joseph W. Campbell, a veteran both of the war of the rebellion and of the Panhandle route, died Monday night at his home in Columbus of lung trouble. Mr. Campbell began railing about a year ago, and upon his own request was given a through baggagemastership on the Panhandle between Pittsburgh and Columbus in place of his position as general yardmaster of the road at Dennison. While Mr. Campbell's many friends and associates on the Pennsylvania system knew he was not in good health they were surprised to know of his death, he having kept on his runs on the trains Nos. 91 and 29 until a few days ago. He was known to almost every man on the Pittsburgh division of the Panhandle. After serving through the civil war he entered the service of the Panhandle as freight brakeman, then became freight conductor and served a few years on the Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling. He returned to the Panhandle, and about 1890 was made general yardmaster at Dennison. His remains will be interred at his native village of Gnaddenhutten. He leaves a widow.

W. J. Lynch on Speed Demands.

"Railroads should not set a strenuous speed for the public," says Warren J. Lynch of Cincinnati general passenger and ticket agent of the Big Four route. "It should be the duty of railroads to meet commercial demands in the running of trains. For instance, the running time of the Big Four between Cincinnati and Buffalo is 13 hours. There would be no commercial necessity for running in 10 hours; the train could not leave at any hour on such a schedule to make it of benefit to business men. There is a demand for fast trains between New York and Chicago, since, by the 18-hour schedule, business men can do their traveling between these cities without losing a business day. This is the point for railroads to consider—not how fast shall we run the trains, but how can we properly meet the commercial necessity of the traveling public. I am in favor of trains running to meet only those demands. The public and not the railroads should set the pace."

Mr. McCrea Going to Europe.

James McCrea, first vice president of the Pennsylvania lines west, accompanied by his son, Archibald McCrea, president of the Long Spring and Manufacturing Company, will spend his vacation in a trip to Europe, starting the latter part of this month, and intending to be absent about four weeks. Mr. McCrea says that nothing special attaches to this trip, it being just his usual method of spending his vacation. He will probably acquaint himself with the new phases of English railroading while in England.

Mr. Worthington Denies Report.

It has been reported in New York, St. Louis and other cities that B. A. Worthington, who recently left the Harriman lines to become vice president of the Wabash lines east of Toledo, is slated for the position of vice president and general manager of the Western Pacific railway, which is being built by the Gould interests from Denver to the Pacific coast. Mr. Worthington said last evening: "There is absolutely no truth in the report so far as I am concerned. The matter has not even been hinted at."

Railroad Notes.

Dr. H. A. Miller of Sixth street, Pittsburgh, has been appointed surgeon for the Baltimore & Ohio.

C. F. Croner has been appointed assistant yardmaster of the Panhandle at Collier, vice M. J. Fitzpatrick, transferred.

Conductor J. Lemle of the Monongahela division of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie is on the sick list. C. W. Ashton is on his run.

For the third week in June the earnings of the Wheeling & Lake Erie increased $3,618, as compared with the same week last year.

Andrew Green, a Pennsylvania railroad foreman at Altoona, has been pensioned. He entered the service as a messenger 53 years ago.

All of the Pittsburgh railroad offices were closed for the Fourth of July excepting those strictly necessary to the heavy traffic movements.

Conductor William Pratt of the Baltimore & Ohio, accompanied by Mrs. Pratt, is enjoying a vacation trip to Portland and the Yellowstone national park.

The Hicks Run Railroad Company, capital $100,000, has been chartered to build 10 miles of road in Elk and Cameron counties. W. C. Arnold of Dubois is president of the company.

Superintendent S. C. Long of the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania has issued notice to the passenger conductors and enginemen that the minimum running time for trains from Pittsburgh to Altoona is 2 hours and 18 minutes, and from Altoona to Pittsburgh 2 hours and 18 minutes.

C. O. Scull, formerly general passenger agent of the Baltimore & Ohio, and prior to that assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania lines, accompanied by Mrs. Scull, spent his Fourth of July vacation at Somerset, his former home. He is now general manager of the Fidelity Casualty Company of Baltimore.

MANY ANSWERS TO WORD HUNT

Thousands of Replies to The Sunday Gazette's Interesting Contest.

SOME DON'T READ THE RULES

By 9 o'clock tomorrow morning all answers to The Sunday Gazette word hunt contest must be in the hands of the manager at The Gazette office. Judging by the thousands of replies already received the contest has awakened a great interest among those who like to solve hard problems, and at the same time win a good-sized prize. Some of those who have already sent in answers from last Sunday's Gazette show that they have worked hard to get the largest values for their words. Apparently not one advertisement has escaped their attention, for the words are selected from both the large display advertisements and the small classified announcements.

As usual, some of the contestants have allowed their zeal to lead them into the wrong paths. They forget that no one letter is allowed to be used a total of more than four times in the four words selected. Some of the answers show the letter "e" five and six times, "t" appears in one answer five times, and so on. The published rules are very explicit in this respect and all answers not complying with the conditions will be thrown out. Be sure to read the rules before sending in your answers.

The word hunt differs from most of the contests conducted by newspapers in that there is no guess work. All the words [illegible] are in the advertisements and you do not have to leave anything to chance. It is simply a matter of taking The Sunday Gazette and studying the advertisements to get the word that you think has the greatest value. It's there as plain as the nose on your face.

Next Sunday's Gazette will give the list of the ones whose efforts were successful. Of course some will be disappointed. But don't be discouraged. Study next Sunday's advertisements carefully, get words necessary to secure a prize, fill out the coupon and send to the manager of the contest. And above all things, be sure to comply with the rules.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, O., July 4.—The stage of the Ohio river at 6 p. m. today was 14.5 feet and falling. Times were quiet on Front street today, all of the houses closing early on account of the holiday. The Virginia carried a good passenger list to Pittsburgh. Capt. J. F. Ellison said today that it had not been determined when the committee, of which he is chairman, will go to Baltimore to present the request of the national waterways conference for the reconvening of the rivers and harbors congress at Washington at the same time as the meeting of the national waterways convention, which is to be held early in December. Departures—Tacoma, for Pomeroy, 8 p. m.

HOLIDAY ON THE RIVER.

Business Is Very Dull, Although Packets Carry Good Crowds.

Nowhere in Pittsburgh was there more convincing proof that yesterday was a holiday than on the Monongahela wharf. Except for the passengers who trailed down the grass-grown stones, one might easily have imagined that it was Sunday, and a dull one, too. The steamer Columbia of the Morgantown packet line enlivened the scene in the morning by taking a big load of excursionists for a trip up the river as far as Elizabeth, returning about 3 o'clock. She left on her regular trip at 4:30 o'clock with a fair booking of passengers. The Queen City was at the wharf all day and registered a good roll of passengers before she departed for Cincinnati at 5:30 in the evening. On her last trip up the river she had the largest booking of passengers made this year, except that of the Virginia going down last week, which carried over 400 persons, showing that the down-river trips are getting popular for vacationists.

Saturday was a busy day for the pleasure craft that ply in large numbers on the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers beyond the city limits. Up the Allegheny the majority of the members of the Oakmont Boat club spent part of the day on the river. Dozens of row boats were scudding up and down the river all day, going up as far as Springdale. The canoe clubs, too, were making good use of the holiday, although the paddlers were all but blistered in the broiling sun.

RAW BLEEDING SCALY ECZEMA

Looked More Like Piece of Raw Beef Than Human Being—Doctors Useless—Blessed Relief and First Real Sleep in Weeks After First Application, and

SPEEDY CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Words cannot describe the terrible eczema I suffered with. I was almost a solid mass of sores from head to foot, and looked more like a piece of raw beef than a human being. Blood and pus oozed from a great sore on my scalp, from under my finger nails, and nearly all over my body, and every hair in my head fell out. I could not sit down, for my clothes would stick to the raw and bleeding flesh, making me cry out with pain. My doctor did all he could, but I got worse and worse. I did not think I could live, and wanted death to end my frightful sufferings.

"My mother-in-law begged me to try Cuticura. I said I would, but had no hope of recovery. But oh, what blessed relief I experienced after applying Cuticura Ointment. It cooled the bleeding and itching flesh, and brought me the first real sleep in weeks. It was as grateful as ice to a burning tongue. I would bathe with warm water and Cuticura Soap, then apply the Ointment freely, and took the Resolvent for the blood. Soon the sores stopped running, the flesh began to heal, my hair started to grow, and in a short time I was completely cured. If any one doubts this, tell them to write to me.—Mrs. Wm. Hunt, 135 Thomas St., Newark, N. J., Jan. 11, 1905."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for every Humor, from Pimples to Scrofula, from Infancy to Age, consisting of Cuticura Soap, 25c., Ointment, 50c., Resolvent, 50c. (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60), may be had of all druggists. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most disfiguring cases.

INDEPENDENTS WILL LIKELY ACCEPT SCALE

Agreement With American Sheet and Tin Plate Company Considered Satisfactory.

The announcement that scales had been signed for both the sheet steel and the tin plate workers belonging to the Amalgamated association attracted much attention yesterday. This scale was signed, however, only between the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company and the Amalgamated and is not effective, therefore, with the many independent sheet steel and tin plate companies.

Formal announcement of the terms agreed upon with the leading interest was sent at once to the independents, and it is the expectation that there will be no serious difficulty in securing agreements with every company operating mills of the two kinds.

It is pointed out that the demands of the Independents at the conference, which opened almost two weeks ago, were less drastic than the settlement effected by the sub-committee with the American company. For this reason it is believed that the independents will at once accept the new scales.

There are two courses for the independents. One is for them to signify individually their willingness to accept the new scale, the other is for the calling of a conference with the Amalgamated, at which the wage matter can be threshed over again. It is not expected that the latter alternative will be necessary.

ROOT MAY SUCCEED HAY TO GET TO WHITE HOUSE

Secretaries Shaw and Taft Also Looked Upon as Strong Possibilities.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, July 4.—Should the president be able to prevail on Elihu Root to reenter the cabinet as secretary of state, the result might prove of more than ordinary significance.

The name of the former secretary of war has been associated more than once since the last presidential election with the Republican presidential nomination in 1908. This suggestion, it is understood, has not been at all disagreeable to Mr. Root. Men of a practical political turn of mind are ready to predict that if Mr. Root enters the cabinet as premier of the administration, a healthy impetus will be given to a movement to make him the Republican nominee three years hence.

There are two men in the cabinet who are looked upon as strong presidential possibilities—Secretary of War Taft and Secretary of the Treasury Shaw. Another cabinet officer whom some persons regard as a presidential possibility is Postmaster General Cortelyou.

WOMEN SCREAM AND FAINT.

Two Glassport Street Cars Leave the Tracks and Tie Up a Holiday Crowd.

Two Pittsburgh railway cars on their way to Glassport jumped the track at Pentona switch yesterday morning and narrowly escaped going over the embankment. None of the passengers was seriously hurt, but all received a severe shaking up.

In the rush to get out several children were knocked down. A panic ensued and women screamed, thinking there had been a wreck. A physician on the forward car attended two women who fainted. Thousands of people on their way to Glassport to attend the big celebration and witness the parade were delayed several hours, and many walked.
